Siege Of An Loc

SOUTH OF AN LOC, Vietnam (AP) — Between the dusty row of front-line foxholes here, and President Nguyen Van Thieu's impatient desire to fly to a victory celebration at embattled An Loc, are about 100 do-or-die enemy troops.

They are all that remain of a regiment that for a month has frustrated Saigon plans to lift the 69-day siege of An Loc and proclaim a massive victory.

These remnants are holding a South Vietnamese infantry regiment to advances of 200 feet a day along Highway 13—the An Loc lifeline—by a combination of sheer guts and masterly guerrilla tactics, say American advisers.

Only one mile of Highway 13 remains to be cleared for a linkup of Saigon troops north of Chon Thanh and a triumphal entry into the provincial capital.

As each day passes with the promised linkup unmade, Saigon's 21st Division, responsible for opening the highway and ending the siege, gets increasingly embarrassed.

"The irony is that in military terms, opening the highway is secondary now. We are getting enough troops in by choppers, and enough supplies, to take pressure off An Loc," a U.S. adviser said.

"But psychologically, we are nailed to the Route 13 cross. Symbolically, the An Loc siege will not be lifted until the first convoy gets through. And not a military vehicle has moved along this highway in two months."

Industrial Index

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of the nation's factories, mines and utilities showed a moderate increase in May, the Federal Reserve Board reported Wednesday.

The board's key industrial production index advanced by 0.5 per cent after a sharp 1 per cent increase of a month earlier.

This combined with more bad news on the balance-of-payments deficit and a somewhat slackened rate of increase in personal income in a day of mixed economic data.

The tapering-off of the rise in industrial output was not of the magnitude to indicate any economic slowdown, but another strong increase had been expected by many officials.

Industrial production is one of the nation's most sensitive barometers of economic activity. The May rise brought the index at 111.6 of the 1967 average, making it 4.3 per cent higher than a year ago.

Most of the gains in May output were centered in consumer goods, business equipment and hard materials. Production of automobiles dropped off to an annual rate of 8.8 million units compared with a 9-million rate in April.

The Commerce Department said that personal income of all Americans rose $4.8 billion in May to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $916 billion. This compared with a $5.5-billion rise a month earlier.

The department said retroactive pay increases approved by the Pay Board added $1 billion at an annual rate of May figure, about $500 million less than retroactive pay approved in April. Most of the May increase was centered in wages and salaries, which rose $3 billion, the department said.

Internationally, the Commerce Department said the nation's balance-of-payments deficit deteriorated in the first three months of the year by a measure designed to show the long-range dollar drain from this country.

The balance was in deficit by $3.2 billion on a seasonally adjusted basis compared with $1.8 billion in the last three months of 1971.

Kissinger—Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's globetrotting national security adviser, leaves this week for his fourth trip to the People's Republic of China for a round of consultations aimed at normalizing relations.

His visit June 19-23 was announced Wednesday by the White House as a followup to Nixon's February Peking summit meeting for a continuing exchange of views on any international topic either side wants to raise.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he would not relate the trip to any particular topic, including developments in Vietnam. But it comes at a time when Peking has been increasingly critical of U.S. air strikes near the border of North Vietnam and China.

And it will coincide with a time when Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny is expected to be in Hanoi for talks with North Vietnamese leaders.

However, Ziegler said there is no connection with the Podgorny trip, and that Kissinger plans no side visits to other countries. And he added that no meetings with representatives of other countries in Peking are contemplated.

The Kissinger trip was agreed on in principle during Nixon's summit talks in Peking in February, Ziegler said, but the date was pinned down only in recent days.

New Delhi Jet Crash

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Japanese jetliner crashed in flames Wednesday while making a landing approach at New Delhi, throwing burned bodies over a square mile of farmland near the holy Jumna River where Hindus cremate their dead. Government officials said all but six of the 89 persons aboard perished.

Two young children were given good chances of recovery, but the other four survivors were in critical condition with first-degree burns.

At the time of the crash a heat haze hung over New Delhi, where temperatures have hovered around 110 degrees in recent days. Visibility was poor because of dust storms.

The Japan Airlines DC8, carrying 78 passengers and 11 crew, went down in a wheat field 15 miles from the airport near the village of Jaipur.

It was not known immediately if any Americans were aboard.

Flight 471 had picked up passengers in Tokyo, Hong Kong and Bangkok. It was bound for Tehran, Cairo, Rome, Frankfurt and London after a New Delhi stopover.

EPA Puts Ban On DDT's Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency announced Wednesday an almost total ban on domestic use of DDT effective next Dec. 31, but the decision was appealed immediately by both sides in the prolonged struggle.

DDT product formulators asked the federal appeals court in New Orleans to set aside the order issued by EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus.

At the same time, the environmentalists opposing the pesticide filed an appeal in federal court here, seeking to eliminate from Ruckelshaus's order the last remaining exceptions for which DDT use may be permitted.

The order climaxed a dispute which Ruckelshaus himself dated back to the publication, 10 years ago, of the late Rachel Carson's famous book "Silent Spring," which warned of the effects of chemicals on the environment.

Miss Carson's cause was quickly adopted by a coalition of conservationists and scientists opposing continued use of DDT, one of the mainstays of man's fight against disease and insect pests since its discovery in 1939.

They argued that DDT persists in the environment, is absorbed by animals and man, harms wildlife, and poses a potential threat to human health.

Ruckelshaus agreed with these arguments in Wednesday's order, stating that "the long-range risks of continued use of DDT for use on cotton and most other crops is unacceptable and outweighs any benefits."

Ruckelshaus said DDT probably would be replaced by the use of methyl parathion, a chemical considered highly toxic but which breaks down rapidly and does not collect in the environment.

CALCUTTA (AP) — President Nikolai V. Podgorny of the Soviet Union showed up in Calcutta Wednesday on his way to an undisclosed mission in Hanoi, North Vietnam's capital.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow speculated the journey was part of a concerted Russian move to bring about a Vietnam peace settlement, a followup to President Nixon's summit talks last month in the Soviet capital. But they conceded they had no hard facts.

"The Vietnam problem should be immediately solved," Podgorny said through an interpreter at Calcutta's airport. "America should cease bombing. The United States should leave Vietnam."

Unlike on Podgorny's last trip to North Vietnam in October 1971, Moscow made no advance announcement of his travel plans. The first confirmation came when Podgorny embarked from a Soviet aircraft in Calcutta for what was announced as a one-hour stopover. A Soviet Embassy spokesman said later Podgorny delayed his departure for Hanoi until Thursday because of bad flying weather.

New Delhi's pro-Moscow Patriot newspaper carried a Moscow dispatch Wednesday that said Podgorny was expected to discuss with Vietnamese leaders the possibility of resuming peace negotiations in Paris in view of what was described as a hint from the United States that it would be agreeable to ending its boycott of the talks.

Planes Hammer Factories, Bridges In Record Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers pounded North Vietnam with a record number of raids, crumbling factories, topping bridges, and knocking out more than 100 supply trucks, barges and boats, military officials reported Wednesday.

One of 10 bridges reported hit in 340 raids Tuesday was a rail and highway bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and Haiphong. The attack by Navy pilots from the carrier Midway, destroyed the bridge, severing the main rail line between North Vietnam's capital and its main port, the U.S. Command said.

American jets also swept within 45 miles of the Chinese border to attack the northwest rail line, dropping four small bridges with accurate laser-guided bombs. Then they roared southward and smashed a pontoon bridge assembly line on the northwestern edges of Hanoi in the biggest strikes of the day.

The pontoon plant, the only known factory of its kind in North Vietnam, was described as one of the most important targets by a senior Air Force official.

The factory was uncovered by specialists working with aerial reconnaissance photos of the North. Eight Air Force F4 Phantoms dropped 16 of their 2,000-pound laser-guided bombs, leaving 28 buildings at the Hung Hoa factory in ruins, the official said.

Pontoon bridge making is now a critical industry in the North because scores of the heavier steel and concrete bridges have been knocked out by U.S. air strikes.

B52 bombers pummeled enemy troop concentrations and staging areas Wednesday along South Vietnam's western border with Laos and Cambodia. About a score of the giant bombers attacked North Vietnamese forces in the A Shau Valley near Hue.

Light action was reported in the ground war in the South. One American soldier was killed when two patrols of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division, accidentally fired on each other 30 miles northeast of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported.

A section of Highway 13 south of An Loc still was held by North Vietnamese troops. Allied officers have said the 60-day siege of the city cannot be considered lifted until the overland route to An Loc is completely opened.

NEW YORK: Sen. George McGovern smiles broadly on ferryboat while en route to pay a "sentimental" visit Wednesday to the Statue of Liberty. The South Dakota senator is seeking the lion's share of N.Y. State's 278 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. (UPI Telephoto)

Kennedy Can't Picture Being Veep Candidate

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Wednesday he would consider running for vice president on a Democratic ticket headed by Sen. George S. McGovern if that was the only way President Nixon could be beaten in November.

"But I don't believe that's a reasonable situation, or a foreseeable one," declared the Massachusetts senator, adding: "I can't foresee any circumstances under which I might accept."

In New York for a fund-raising rally, front-runner McGovern's first reaction was to say Kennedy "would be a great asset on the ticket.... I wouldn't exclude Sen. Kennedy from consideration if I became the presidential nominee."

Later, however, the candidate from South Dakota drew up a formal statement in which he declared:

"I have long treasured my friendship with Sen. Kennedy. I am sure he and I both agree that it's premature to talk about the vice presidency until the presidential nomination is decided. There is no question but that Sen. Kennedy would bring great strength to any national ticket."

Originally, McGovern was looked upon in some quarters as a stalking horse for Kennedy in advance of the Democratic National Convention July 10. But Kennedy has insisted again and again that he would not seek the presidential nomination this year.

The possibility of Kennedy as a vice-presidential nominee was raised Tuesday in a copyright interview with the Boston Globe. Kennedy and other members of the Kennedy family are believed to favor McGovern for the presidential nomination, and he was asked whether he could be persuaded to run for vice president to strengthen the McGovern ticket.

"In my own mind, if it would make a difference, then it would really make a difference," the Globe quoted Kennedy in reply. "The same general principles apply to not accepting the vice presidency as the presidency."

In Washington, Kennedy later confirmed his statements to the Globe, adding, however, that he could not foresee the eventuality in which he might seek the vice presidency. He said neither McGovern nor anyone else had contacted him about No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket.

During the day, McGovern learned that Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, was making active campaigning for presidential nomination scheduled 10-state delegate-seeking tour, with Sen. Frank Hughes, D-Iowa, as his campaign director.

Muskie had dropped out of the primary battle after showings in several states, though he never abandoned his bid for the nomination.

"Sen. Muskie and I have been on the delegate hunt together before," McGovern commented. "We remain friends and I welcome a friendly competition."

The Education Measure

Preoccupation with the controversial issue of school busing has somewhat obscured the greater import of the education bill finally enacted by the House and sent to the President for his signature. This measure is, as Secretary Elliott L. Richardson of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has rightly said, "a landmark in the history of higher education."

It is in the area of higher education that the bill most evidently ploughs new ground. For one thing, it brings us substantially further toward the goal of making a college education available to all who want one and who meet minimum academic standards: every student will be entitled to a grant of $1,400, minus what his family can contribute. In addition, the law will set in motion a new program under which colleges and universities will receive direct federal aid which might total as much as a billion dollars annually were Congress to appropriate the maximum allowed.

Another important provision of the bill focuses on research. Inquiry into the learning process, broadly defined, will be fostered by a newly established National Institute of Education.

As to the measure's busing provisions, over which there has been such controversy during the past year, there is still doubt as to which faction gained the most. Those who wanted what Richardson calls "a clearly defined busing moratorium" were disappointed, as were those who sought continuation of the system whereby inadequate school desegregation systems could be challenged in the courts.

This and other aspects of the bill make it a mixed bag so far as curbs on school busing are concerned. On balance, however, it does have the effect of inhibiting use of busing as one of the means to assure integration of schools.

Design Catching Up With Kids

Every kid who ever made a model airplane whose wings were slightly askew was further ahead of his time than anybody realized.

Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine reports that government and industry researchers are investigating a "radical, anti-symmetric wing-fuselage arrangement" which, like a kid's first model, has wings that don't stay put.

Early designs for a supersonic transport featured wings that could be swept forward and back on both sides. The latest idea envisions a straight wing mounted on top of the fuselage with a pivot at its center point. At high speeds, half the wing would be pointed more toward the direction of flight and the other half would be trailing.

Hoped-for advantages of the new wing include:

— Reduced noise problems, because the straight wing would allow a takeoff power requirement only 25 per cent of that of swept-back designs.

— Maximum efficiency at any speed, permitting the aircraft to avoid the sonic boom problem because it could operate economically over land at subsonic speeds, then accelerate over water.

— Cruise altitude of 40,000 feet, avoiding the possibility of polluting the upper atmosphere.

— Lower take-off and landing speeds, thus enabling it to operate out of existing airports.

Seven decades after Wilbur and Orville Wright, we're still learning about airplanes.

Marshall Plan Memorial

At Harvard University on June 5, 1947, Secretary of State George C. Marshall first publicly broached the proposal that soon evolved into the Marshall Plan for aiding Europe's recovery after World War II. It is fitting that, exactly 25 years later, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has come to Harvard to announce the establishment of a German Marshall Plan memorial.

What Marshall offered was that the United States would extend financial aid to European countries "willing to assist in the task of recovery." Some 12 billion dollars was poured out in Marshall Plan aid over the next three and a half years. This was the crucial factor in getting Europe back on its feet, and in staving off the encroachment of Communism.

West Germany was among the chief beneficiaries of the Marshall Plan. That lends a special filip to Brandt's assertion, "The gratitude of Europeans has remained alive." In token of that, he said at a Harvard convocation, West Germany will provide 47 million dollars over a 15-year period for a program of joint American-European studies and research. It is a handsome tribute to Marshall, and to the generous undertaking which bore his name—an undertaking recalled by Brandt as "one of the most formidable and at the same time successful achievements of the United States."

McGovern's Economics May Be Explosive Issue

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's plan to take from the rich and give to the poor may be the most explosive issue of the presidential campaign—and by far the foggiest in terms of how it would work and what it would cost.

The Democrat from South Dakota speaks less often now of "redistributing income." He has diluted his program, but it remains drastic. He used a full-page advertisement in the Wall Street Journal last month to clarify his views and reassure business that he is devoted to private enterprise.

The basic aspects of the plan are:

—A $1,000 base payment to every individual from the federal Treasury, replacing the present welfare system.

—Elimination of the $750 personal exemption on federal income taxes.

—An estate tax on inheritances graduated up to a maximum of 77 per cent.

—Federal payments of one-third of the cost of education to the states, reducing property taxes correspondingly.

—A $32.4-billion cut in defense spending with the savings to pay for the other programs including a full employment program.

The McGovern proposals proved to have vast voter appeal in California's important primary despite charges of his foremost rival, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, that they would wreck national security and cripple the economy.

His staff contends he is frequently misrepresented. There is evidence this is true, but frequently the "misquotations" are correct quotations of what McGovern said six months or a year ago. They are just outdated, and fiscal analysts, though they give him high grades for initiative and effort, sometimes flunk him in arithmetic.

For instance, a McGovern statement of Jan. 13, reprinted in the Congressional Record on April 7, says that one of his proposed tax reforms—elimination of the $750 personal exemption—would raise an additional $63.6 billion in federal revenues. The Treasury's estimate is less than half that much.

The McGovern camp revealed last week that the program is being sent back for another run through the computers and possible modification to meet some of the objections.

Doubts have been raised as to how vigorously McGovern would press for some of his objectives. The Wall Street Journal ad on May 22 sought to reassure the business community:

"... I am well aware that under our system, only the Congress initiates tax measures. The suggestions which I have developed in this field should, therefore, be regarded always as suggestions for consideration by the Congress."

The cornerstone of McGovern's economic plan, described in his Jan. 13 statement under the heading "Redistribution of Income," is a government payment of $1,000 a year to every American adult and child regardless of income.

Thus, a family of four would get $4,000. The payment would be taxable, like any other income, but those below the poverty line would keep the whole grant because they would owe no income tax. The wealthy would pay it all back in taxes.

The $1,000 payment would substitute for the present $750 personal exemption, which McGovern would repeal on the ground the exemption benefits the well-to-do far more than it helps the poor.

For incomes above the poverty level, taxes would diminish the value of the $1,000 "minimum income grant." At about $12,000 income, under the McGovern plan, it would be canceled out.

Thus, taxpayers of $12,000-and-up income would support the payments to those with incomes of $12,000 down. The tax cost would rise steeply in upper income brackets. McGovern's advisers told reporters in Los Angeles that the families in the $25,000 to $50,000 income range would pay an average of 80 per cent more federal taxes than at present.

The $1,000 income grant would eliminate most of the present welfare system and its costs. McGovern argues. It is in many respects similar to the family assistance program that President Nixon proposed four years ago for working mothers and the working poor.

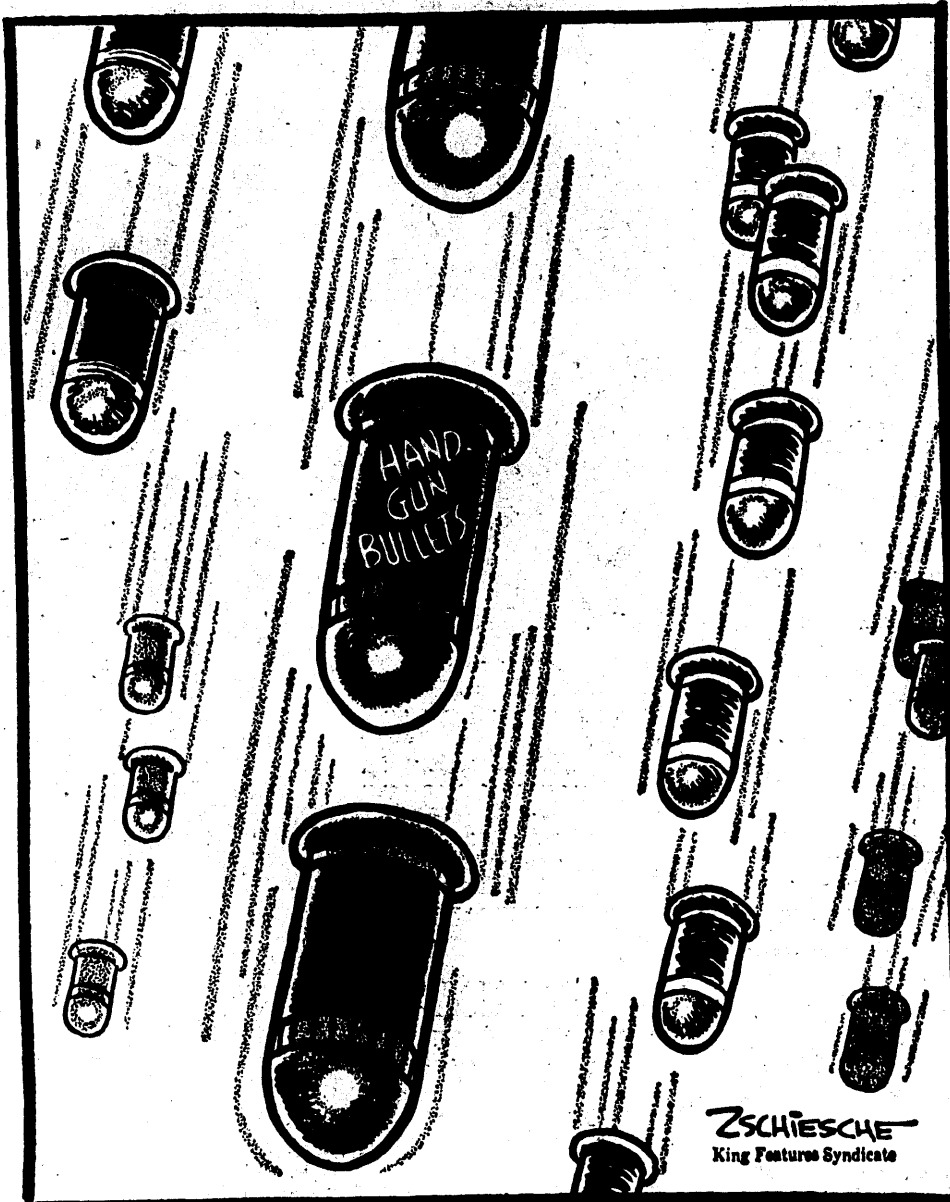

McGovern insisted, at the outset, that "as redistribution of income, the Minimum Income Grant would represent no additional cost to the treasury." It would merely shift money from the better-off taxpayers to poorer people, he said.

When his arithmetic came under heavy fire in the California campaign, McGovern acknowledged there might be a gap of $20 billion to $27 billion. "This might come," said a fact sheet issued just before the California primary, "from a combination of two sources—specific loophole closing ... and a modest increase in overall tax rates."

McGovern's many-tiered fiscal edifice has an ominous look to industry, because it calls for an additional $17 billion in tax collection in fiscal 1973 from corporations. The additional revenue would come, he says, from the repeal of "covert rate reductions" which have been granted to corporations since 1960.

The $17 billion would represent roughly a 50 per cent increase over the $35.7 billion in corporate income tax collections projected in President Nixon's fiscal 1973 budget.

HHH Blueprints Convention Win

By BRUCE RIOSSAT
HOUSTON (NEA)—On the eve of the year's last great spate of primaries, key operatives of Sen. Hubert Humphrey offered newsmen one of the most unusual strategies for nomination to the presidency that anyone anywhere has advanced in recent times.

The plan, spread before reporters in some detail, assumed Humphrey's defeat by Sen. George McGovern in all of the last five primaries, including those in huge California and New York with their enormous clusters of national convention delegates.

But, says Humphrey aide Michael Maloney, the senator's strategists believe McGovern will be left short of first ballot nomination, that he cannot in the intervening weeks acquire the necessary added delegates to reach a winning 1,509, and that Humphrey himself will enjoy a resurgence which could nominate him by a fifth ballot at Miami Beach.

In fact, says Maloney, the Humphrey planners decided last December that no candidate would be nominated by the Democrats on the first ballot this time and that their whole effort should be geared to the idea of a multi-ballot convention.

The notion is unique, in the light of modern nominating history. From 1932 through 1968, the two major parties together held 20 national conventions. Sixteen of them were settled on the first ballot, a couple required three ballots, one went to four and another to six.

Only the four-ballot affair, Franklin D. Roosevelt's first nomination at Chicago in 1932, had any of the earmarks of a true deadlock, and it was broken by quick trading. The other multi-ballot contests were always fluid and fast-moving. The last multi-ballot outcome was the late Adlai Stevenson's initial nomination in 1952.

The Humphrey team's view of 1972 plainly is that McGovern, despite his remarkable upward burst since his first primary win in Wisconsin this April, has no fresh potential and no prospect of developing crucial delegate reserves.

Maloney figures that, giving McGovern 210 of New York's 278 delegates in the final primary on June 20, the South Dakota senator's first-ballot peak will have been reached at around 1,258 delegates. The contention is that he'll never go higher.

Humphrey is seen as polling a strong second, with some 922 votes on the opening round. The disabled Gov. George Wallace is placed third with 357, and the diminished Sen. Edmund Muskie fourth at 167.

Humphrey's initial total, says Maloney, will include what he has in hand plus 290 strong "probables" and 284 votes said now to be uncommitted.

Curiously, the Humphrey planners do not spell out in specific numbers how he will rise from ballot to ballot until he is nominated—or Muskie is re-born as a winning alternative. But they do say flatly that McGovern will lose 63 votes on the second ballot, 102 on the third, 120 on the fourth, dropping him to a level where he will thereafter be out of the battle.

The Humphrey calculations that lead to this unique strategy are complex. They assure no big push behind McGovern at the critical phase, a great stir at the convention among women, young, and blacks who may not now exhibit strong loyalties to candidates, and a basic sturdiness and resilience in time-tested Hubert.

The most unusual of these assumptions is that there is no such thing as a bandwagon, no momentum for McGovern in winning big.

Ann Landers:

Leaving Lights On Won't Save Bulbs

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has a cheap streak when it comes to certain things. He goes around the house telling me to keep the lights ON instead of turning them off when I leave the room. He seems to think it "saves the bulbs." I don't know where he got the idea. I read somewhere that leaving lights on, rather than turning them off and on again when you need them, will not "save the bulbs."

His habit is annoying and I'd appreciate it if you'd find out if he is really saving bulbs by letting the lights burn. Thanks, Ann.—Lights Out Linda

Dear Linda: The man at Con Edison says this: Incandescent light bulbs are made to burn a certain number of hours. They will burn approximately this length of time whether they are on all the time or switched on and off frequently.

Fluorescent bulbs, however, are a different matter. Turning them on DOES use up a little something that eventually wears away. However, in normal household use, the life of a light bulb is NOT shortened by an appreciable amount if the bulb is turned on and off several times a day.

Dear Ann Landers: Wally and I have been happily married for two years. The problem is my brother-in-law, Steve, and his wife.

Steve and I went steady for a year before I married Wally. When Steve and I first started to go together I made the biggest mistake of my life. I thought I was in love with the jerk and you can guess the rest. When it became clear to me that we had nothing in common but sex I broke up with him.

Six months later I started to date Wally. I decided to tell him everything. It wasn't necessary because he already knew. Fortunately Wally was very understanding and he has never mentioned it since.

Four months ago Steve married a girl I knew in high school. I didn't know her well but she absolutely despises me. Wally and I are never invited to their home and they refuse to come to ours. When we meet at family get-togethers she ignores me. It's embarrassing. I feel terrible about this because she makes everyone uncomfortable. Can you help me with my problem?—Blighted Bertie

Dear B.: YOU don't have a problem, your sister-in-law does. In all probability she knows of the past and feels threatened. Continue to be pleasant and maintain a discreet distance from her husband at all times. When she feels more comfortable about you she'll loosen up. Time is on your side.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman signed "Orlando" must have hit every wife whose husband has had a heart attack. Her big ox insists on drinking to excess, overeating, and ignoring the doctor's orders. She wrote pleadingly, "If you love him, girls, nag him! NAG! NAG! NAG! It can mean added years to his life." Your reply, "Who wants more years like that?"—was excellent.

Nagging will kill a marriage faster than NOT nagging will kill a fat husband.

Put food on the table that is good for him. When in public, if he eats the wrong things, keep your mouth shut. If he is supposed to rest after meals and refuses, you can't knock him unconscious.

We hear a lot about the quality of life these days. I say the quality of marriage depends on the emotional climate in the house, and it's the wife who sets the thermostat.—It's Lovely in Libertyville

Dear Love: You took the words right out of my mouth, honey.

Speed Reading Course To Begin In Jacksonville Area

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.
After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.
The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice. For those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.
These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows:
Thursday, June 15, 7:00 p.m.;
Friday, June 16, 7:00 p.m.;
Saturday, June 17, 10:30 a.m.; and a final meeting June 17, at 2:00 p.m. Meetings will be held at the YMCA. (ADV.)

Ask FEPC Screening Of State Contracts

By Robert Kieckhefer
SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—A house committee Wednesday recommended the State Fair Employment Practices Commission be allowed to veto any state contract in an effort to end "a pattern of practices that discriminate against minorities."
The committee issued a 25-point set of recommendations after months of work and 11 public hearings around the state. "The committee has found throughout the state a pattern of practices that discriminate against minorities both as employees and as contractors and vendors," the report said.
"Testimony from the hearings indicated, in almost every case, that where minorities were employed at all, their numbers were far below their proportion of the labor force and they frequently held menial and low-paying jobs."

More Union Resistance
The report, issued by the House Contracts Compliance Committee Chairman, Rep. Harold Washington, D Chicago, also said the panel found, in general, "more recalcitrance by union (than business) witnesses with respect to making good-faith efforts, related to equitable and obtainable goals, for bringing minorities into the trades in which their own statistics clearly show they are not represented."
On the part of state agencies, the report said, there have been "no efforts whatsoever or fragmented and uncoordinated efforts" to end discrimination.
The committee cited the example of one contractor who was barred from dealing with the Department of Transportation because of discriminatory practices but, seven months later, was awarded a $470,000 contract with the toll highway authority.

"This kind of activity...cannot continue," the report said. "The committee has concluded that effective contract compliance is possible only when administered by a single enforcement authority."
The report said, "The committee thinks it is important for the governor to expand his support of the FEPC to the new contract compliance program," the report said.
"What is necessary at this point is his vigorous public leadership to issue an executive order clearly establishing aggressive contract compliance as state policy."
Minimum annual FEPC funding of $250,000 was recommended.

Bakalis Hears Problems On School Desegregation

CHICAGO (UPI)—State Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis asked a group of school district leaders Monday what problems they were having implementing the state school desegregation guidelines.

One school board president said discussions on the matter had resulted in an outpouring of "bitterness, rancor and gut feeling."
Bakalis posed the question to about 100 administrators from nine northern Illinois counties during a session designed to answer their questions about the guidelines, which were announced last November.
Robert Nichols, school board president in south suburban Hazel Creek, said the town was "polarized" with a 55 per cent black population and 45 per cent white.
He said public hearings on the guidelines resulted in investigations from adults, which were transmitted to children, and resulted in recent fights in junior high schools. Several students were seriously injured.
Voices Were Heard
Bakalis answered, "I'm not sure I'm prepared to take all the blame for that physical violence. But if you are saying movement on the part of the state allowed people to voice existing hatreds, maybe that's so."
He offered to meet with Nichols to search for solutions and to talk to community residents.
To the other superintendents he said, "I want to know if anything we are doing is in effect resegregating the community. I certainly don't want to be known as the man who made Chicago, Rockford and Peoria all black (by making whites in the state's three largest cities flee to suburbs)."

BETHEL CEMETERY FUND FISH FRY

PLANNED FOR JULY
A meeting for the Bethel cemetery fund was held at the home of Mrs. Mae Tomlin, 201 Caldwell, Jacksonville, June 10.
New officers were elected and installed. They are: president, Mrs. Wilbur Lawson; vice-president, Mrs. Mae Tomlin; treasurer, Mrs. Spencer Wagstaff; secretary, Mrs. Opal Wilson.
A fish fry is planned for July 21 to be held at the Murrayville park, 5 to 8 p.m. Helen Coates was appointed in charge of the tickets, $1.75 adults, children under 12 $1.00. The menu will include fish, potato salad, baked beans, slaw, bread and butter, ice tea or coffee and dessert.
There will be a meeting at the Murrayville Park June 23 at 7 p.m. where plans will be completed for the fish fry and discussion concerning the Bethel cemetery.
Refreshments were served following the meeting by Mrs. Mae Tomlin.

750 Local Families Need Rent Subsidy

A comprehensive study of Illinois housing needs released Wednesday indicates that over 1,000 families in Morgan County—750 of them in Jacksonville—need rent subsidies to be able to afford standard housing units.

The study, issued by the Illinois Housing Development Authority and the state Office of Planning and Analysis, showed that 1,398 or about 12 per cent of the 11,368 occupied housing units in Morgan County were deficient due to overcrowding or lack of plumbing.

Of these, about 10 per cent of Jacksonville's 6,334 occupied housing units were considered deficient.

The statistics were compiled from the 1970 census reports. A unit was considered overcrowded if occupancy per room was more than one person or if the house lacked a complete plumbing unit.

The report revealed that 797 housing units in the county, about 7 per cent, lacked plumbing and 688, about 6 per cent, were grossly overcrowded.

Seventeen per cent of all renter occupied housing was considered deficient compared to 9 per cent of the owner occupied units.

In Jacksonville, about 9 per cent of the rental units lack complete plumbing systems while about 6 per cent are overcrowded.

In Illinois, about 11 per cent of all units were deemed deficient, 4 per cent lacking plumbing and 7 per cent overcrowded.

A breakdown by Illinois nine standard metropolitan statistical areas showed the following percentages of deficient units: Bloomington - Normal, 8.7; Champaign-Urbana, 8.6; Chicago, 10.7; Davenport-Rock Island-Moline, 10.0; Decatur, 11.4;

Pike Co Fair Opening Set Monday, July 17

PLEASANT HILL — The annual Pike County Fair, held at the fairgrounds here, will open Monday, July 17th, continuing through Sunday, July 23rd.

"We've Only Just Begun" will be the theme this year for the Pike County Fair Queen and Talent contest which will be held Saturday, July 22.

The Queen contest is open to any Pike county girl, 16 to 21 years of age. Mrs. James Leeds of Rockport, route one, and Mrs. Vada Austin and Mrs. Pat Mellon, both of Pittsfield, are in charge of the Queen pageant planning committee.

A tea will be held at which time each candidate will appear in street dress. The prospective queens will be judged in their swim suits at the Pleasant Hill swimming pool which has been reserved for the occasion. The formal wear judging will be held Saturday evening, July 22, at the fairgrounds. At this time each girl will answer a question which she has been given ahead of time.

The girl selected Miss Pike County Fair Queen will go on to state competition at the Springfield Fair. The date will be announced later.

Prospective queen candidates are asked to call Mrs. Vada Austin of Pittsfield, phone 285-2659, as soon as possible.

Mrs. Tom Hillebrenner, who is chairman of the talent committee, has announced an age limit of 21 years for entrants. Those interested may enter in any of the following categories: singing, dancing, instrumental playing, and miscellaneous. A stage will be provided with a piano, foot-

Satellite Will Complete Global Space Relay Station Network

By AL ROSSITER JR., UPI Space Writer
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A large commercial communications satellite is set for launch toward an orbital outpost above the Indian Ocean next week to complete a global network of high-capacity space relay stations.

The 1.5 ton spacecraft is the fourth in a series of powerful new Intelsat 4 Class satellites. The other three are in service above the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

The satellite, built at a cost of $13.5 million, is owned by the Comsat Corp., and its 32 partner nations. It is scheduled to be launched at 5:53 p.m. EDT Tuesday by a space agency rocket for which Com-sat and its partners are paying $16 million.

Replaces Intelsat 3
Once it reaches its final stationary orbit, 22,300 miles above the equator at 61.4 degrees east longitude, the new satellite will replace a smaller Intelsat 3 launched in early 1969.

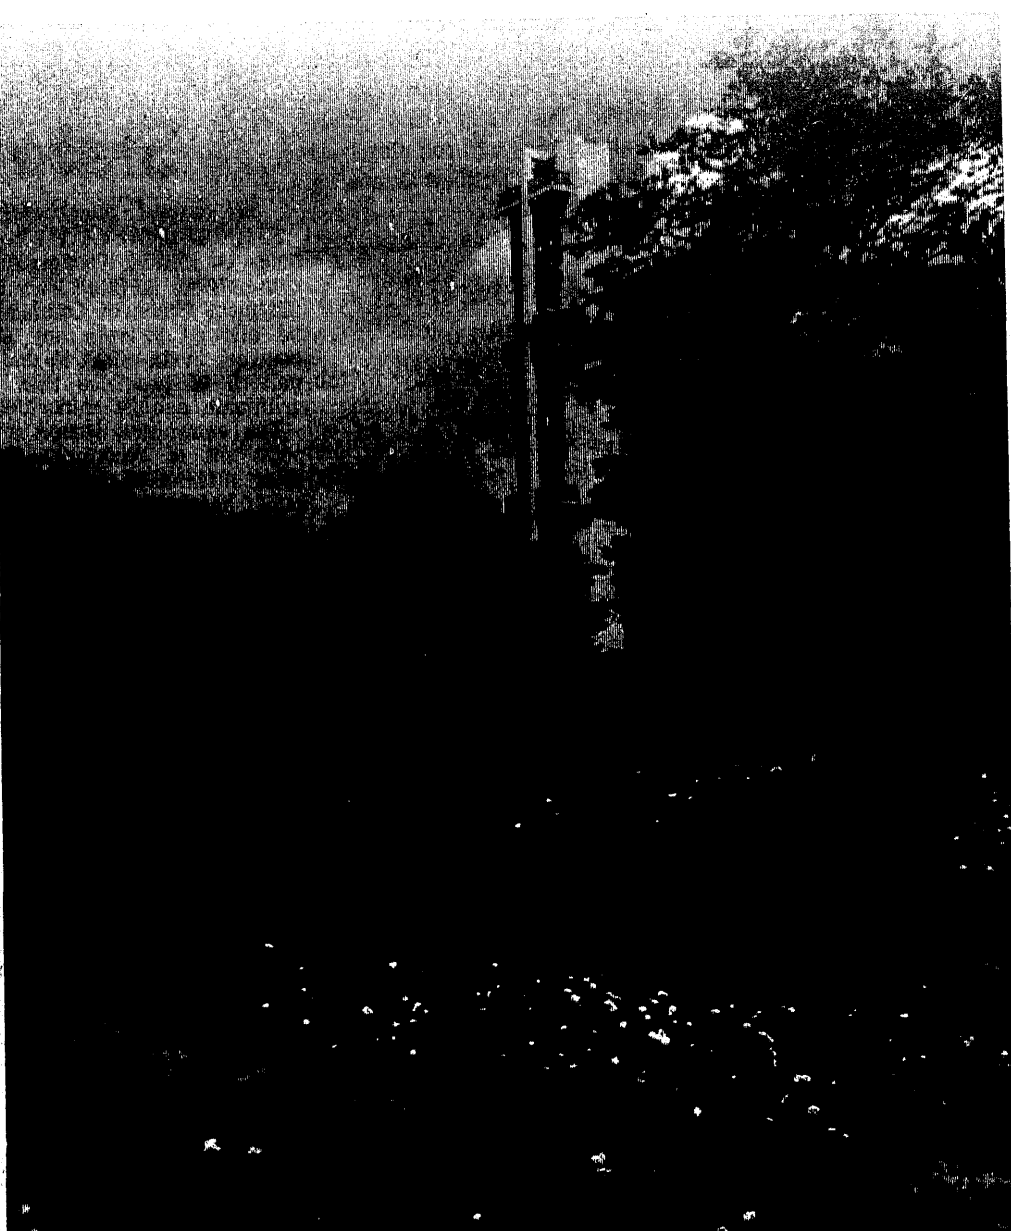

The Intelsat 4, seven times more powerful than the current Indian Ocean satellite, will give the international communications consortium a system of the big spacecraft able to relay communications around the world. Each satellite covers about a third of the globe.

Two of the Intelsat 4s are handling the busy transatlantic traffic and they beamed live television coverage of President Nixon's Russian trip to the United States.

One Intelsat 4 is in operation above the Pacific with an Intelsat 3 standing by as a backup. The two Pacific spacecraft set a record in February when they transmitted television coverage of the President's China trip and the winter Olympics in Japan.

56 Tracking Stations
There are now 68 ground antennas at 56 tracking stations in 42 countries communicating through the Intelsat satellites.

The new Indian Ocean Intelsat 4 will be able to relay up to a dozen telecasts or thousands of telephone conversations between ground stations in Lebanon, India, Spain, Australia, Indonesia, Italy, En-

SPRINGFIELD'S ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL CARILLON FESTIVAL in the Capital city's Washington Park will be held June 17-25. Robert Stuart, president of the sponsoring Springfield Park District, anticipates some 30,000 or more will hear the music. Festival visitors come from all over the United States, South America and Europe. Featured will be daily concitals, 7:45 and 8 p.m. and on June 18, 24 and 25th from 4 to 5 p.m. There will be guided tours of the Carillon Tower 2 to 4 p.m. daily and 4 to 5 p.m. on Sundays where visitors may see the artists at the clavier. The Sunday schedule continues through Sept. 3rd.

Carillon Ball
The Festival will be inaugurated with the annual Carillon Ball 9 p.m. June 16, by the Rees Carillon Society, to honor Springfield Park District Carillonneur Raymond Keldermans. Keldermans has been resident artist since the 1962 dedication of the carillon, and originator of the festival.

The Rees Carillon Society, a volunteer group devoted to aiding the park district carillon festivals, is also sponsoring an annual Carillon Dinner June 21. Both events will be at the St. Nicholas hotel, and are open to the public. Reservations may be made by writing to Box 2345, Springfield, Ill. 62705.

Festival carillon recitals provide a range to suit every taste—classics, light opera, folk songs, hymns, marches and modern popular selections. One all-pops recital is usually played by request.

Weekend Ballets
Half-hour ballet performances will introduce weekend programs, which further include band, brass ensemble selections and a Suzuki violin group.

A related festival feature will be the dedication of the new Washington Park Horticulture Center, about 500 feet southwest of the carillon tower. Another will be the 10th annual Summer Rose Walk from 1 to 8 p.m. June 18 and 25. The Horticulture Center dedication takes place at 2 p.m. June 18. A special floral extravaganza will be on display in the center's Observatory. The 49-bed Rose Garden contains more than 5,000 bushes, representing 141 varieties, including every All-American selection through 1973 (cq).

Costumed Belles
Adding color to the festival will be the Carillon Belles, the fund-raising membership committee of the Rees Carillon Society, who, in Dutch attire will provide guide and information service during the recitals.

The idea of an annual international festival was conceived by Stuart and Keldermans during the 1962 dedicatory festival of the Rees tower with its 66 cast bronze bells from the Petit-Fontaine foundry at Aarle-Rixtel, Holland. The response was so enthusiastic that the Rees Carillon Society festival co-sponsor, has membership support from 80 countries.

On Highest Point
The bells of the Rees Carillon are suspended in a free-standing concrete brick tower on the highest point in Springfield, surrounded by groves of trees and brilliantly hued flower beds. It was a bequest to the people by the late state Sen. Thomas Rees, publisher of the Illinois State Register 50 years ago.

It is not only one of the world's largest, but deemed also one of the finest carillons in tonal quality, physical structure and setting by visiting carillonneurs, even those from the Low Countries, the origin and home of the carillon.

In the number of artists, recitals and duration of time, the Springfield festivals are unique in the world. Recently inaugurated festivals elsewhere are confined only to long weekends.

Metropolitan Areas Facing Major Power Shortages

By JOHN M. WILLIAMS
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some of the country's most densely populated areas face a serious shortage of electrical power this summer that could lead to substantial power reductions or "brownouts."

According to a UPI survey of federal government and power company officials, the problem is most serious along the East Coast from Boston to Miami. Reserve power supplies are low, demand is high and the plants don't appear able to make up the difference.

On the other hand, the Western half of the country seems to have adequate reserve supplies of power to meet the growing demands of public consumers and industry.

While electrical power is low, there is a growing demand for other sources of energy. Thomas Berg, president of Friedrich Refrigerators, Inc., San Antonio, Tex., said, "Evidence of the (power) crisis is that every day, the United States imports billions of feet of natural gas from countries like Algeria."

Delay New Facilities

The energy crisis along the East Coast has been brought on by a number of problems, mainly the delay in construction of new power facilities either through objections by environmentalists or technical problems, industry and government officials reported.

Spokesmen for New York's Consolidated Edison Co., one of the nation's largest energy producers, said one of its greatest potential power sources, the Indian Point Plant No. 2 north of New York City, probably would not be ready until late summer. There have been technical problems and intervention by ecologists who claim the plant will upset the environmental balance in the Hudson River.

Loss of the plant's output this summer means the area will lose 873 megawatts of power. To put megawatts in perspective, the power slated to be produced at Indian Point No. 2 could supply the needs of 600,000 homes or 1.6 million people.

Since the plant will not be ready, Con Ed will have to rely on older sources—which one spokesman said included some "real clunkers"—and some new ones. Spokesmen placed confidence in new gas turbine generators on barges in New York's lower bay to help keep the situation stable even in times of peak demand.

If Con Ed gets in trouble, such as a prolonged hot spell or massive equipment failure, the New York State Power Authority has agreed to sell the power company up to 450 megawatts per day from its Niagara power project. Whether this will be enough to offset the deficiencies is speculative.

Southeast Serious

Perhaps the most serious reserve situation is in the Southeast region, where reserves have fallen to 11.1 per cent from 12.4 per cent in 1971. According to a report by the FPC, "the southern Florida and the Virginia-Carolinas areas may have severe problems if significant outages of major generating units are experienced at times of peak load period."

The Office of Emergency Preparedness also is worried over the power deficits in the region, particularly near Miami, the site of the Democratic and Republican presidential conventions. The current reserve in south Florida is about 9 per cent. It is expected to go down to 3.5 per cent in June and 2.1 per cent in July before climbing to 8 per cent in August after the expected completion of a new plant in central Florida. A breakdown of one plant would cause brownouts in June or July, according to the Florida Power and Light Co. Industry spokesmen said it will be the third summer in a row of "inadequate power" in south Florida. A nuclear plant at Turkey Point in Florida City would help solve the problem, but construction there also has been stalled by environmentalists.

TVA In Good Shape

The Georgia, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Virginia region, which is covered by the Tennessee Valley Authority, seems to be in fairly good shape power-wise, barring unforeseen difficulties. A TVA spokesman said coal supplies will last 90 days if something like a general strike were to take place. Reserve power supplies are expected to be about 18 per cent.

All told, it appears as though the cities east of the Mississippi are facing a number of "ifs" this summer. What will happen if the equipment breaks down? What will happen if the region has a prolonged hot spell? What will happen if environmentalists succeed in stalling the opening of planned facilities? What will happen if the power conservation methods fail?

The chances of all the problems occurring at once are

I. C. Trustees Seek Successor To Dr. Caine

A committee of Illinois College trustees has been named to find a successor to President L. Vernon Caine, who has announced his retirement effective in the summer of 1973.

The group has begun preliminary work and will be active during the summer. In the fall, students and faculty each will elect three-member advisory committees to participate in the search.

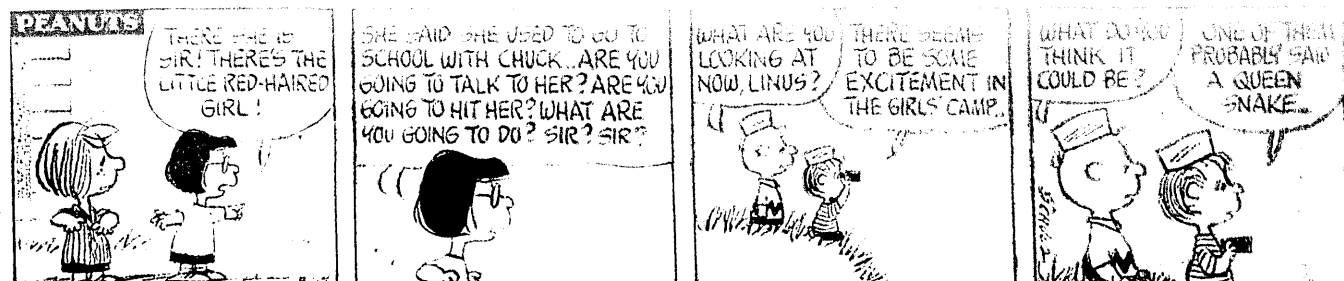

Prospects will be screened to several leading candidates for submission to the entire board of trustees. Target date for the final selection is early spring.

Dr. Caine, president during a period of great growth and prosperity for Illinois College, will reach the prescribed retirement age for administration and faculty prior to the 1973-74 school year. At that time, he will have been exceeded in tenure only by two former presidents.

He will leave the college in good condition and with a balanced budget for 17 consecutive years. With the board of trustees, he has developed a long-range plan looking toward the Illinois College sesquicentennial in 1979. First phase is just underway with selection of architects for a new library.

Members of the trustee search committee are: Lyndle W. Hess, chairman; Walter R. Bellatti; Dr. Robert R. Hartman; Mrs. Walter Lohman; Robert B. Oxtoby; Robert W. Reneker; and Board Chairman William N. Clark, ex-officio.

rather dim and this has led to some optimism on the part of government and power industry officials. But experts still are not sure just what will happen.

May Be 'Blessing In Disguise'

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this dispatch, a companion to a report for Tuesday newspaper on current school money problems, the state's education chief looks at the financial future of school.

By United Press International
Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis believes the 1970s will be "a decade of the real tight dollar for education." But he thinks that might be a blessing in disguise.

Bakalis, who has lobbied hard for increased state aid to public elementary and secondary schools, predicted in a recent interview that Illinois educators will have "difficult" financial problems for at least five more years and probably longer.

The superintendent's office now classifies school districts, with an enrollment equal to 30 per cent of the state's students, as being in critical financial shape because, in most cases, they already have borrowed 75 per cent of next year's anticipated tax revenues.

Serious as the consequences will be — loss of teachers and some school services — "it may be a blessing in disguise," Bakalis said.

"It may force counties, state and school districts to ask some tough, hard questions about where the money (a record $2.8 billion spent on Illinois public schools last year) is going," he said.

When money was more plentiful,

Bakalis said, "people weren't very persistent in their questioning of the system. But if a district is hardpressed, it has to sit down and say, 'What is important?' Strange as it may seem, they sometimes have never asked that question before."

Some savings can be made, he said, by increasing efficiency and management procedures.

But since salaries constitute 80 per cent or more of most school budgets, Bakalis sees personal cuts as "the fundamental way" to reduce costs.

"In any other enterprise, the way people save on cost is to reduce personnel if it's a question of company survival," Bakalis said.

"I think the answer in teaching is not so much laying off, but being very careful about entrance of new people into the profession (17,000 new graduates last year for 10,000 teaching jobs). That's where the reduction of personnel should come."

Bakalis expects teacher unions will eventually help monitor entrance into the profession in order to protect their members' jobs.

Fewer teachers will be needed since, according to Illinois Education Association projections, elementary school enrollment will decline slightly during the decade due to a falling birth rate. At least 15 districts plan cutbacks on that basis next fall.

But Bakalis believes substantial teacher cutbacks are possible only with changes in the school routine. Some changes that have been proposed include larger classes, staggered classroom hours, independent student study and use of a community's cultural and business facilities as places of learning.

"Those are changes that can be accomplished with a savings," he said. "But it takes attitudinal changes, which are extremely difficult to bring about."

"People view the school in terms of what they knew, a very structured, orderly, disciplined setting where the teacher told you things and you regurgitated it back. They view it also as a social and in many cases a babysitting situation. They are sometimes reluctant to have children out of school at 1 o'clock in the afternoon."

"And because they view it as more than an educational institution, people are reluctant to accept changes, even though they may be educationally sound."

Bakalis termed the process "very slow. I wouldn't want to deceive anyone that the majority of the people are ready to make fundamental changes in the institutions. My job is to make people aware of the possibilities and options which could be available to their children."

The state, he says, will be the impetus for any changes that are accomplished.

Would that lead to state control of local schools?

"That would be true if you got that could be wise. Instead, he thinks 75 per cent state funding of schools would be optimum (the level is now 38 per cent) because he sees the main source of local funding — property taxes — being struck down by the courts, and insufficient even if it remained legal.

He also thinks the federal government should raise its level of support from 5 to 10 or 15 per cent.

"I do believe in an activist state education office to help districts, give them resources, guidance, perspective," he says, and as he sees it for the rest of the decade that guidance will be implemented with the state "holding out the carrot, or maybe, in some cases, the club."

No one ever heard about the principle of restricted choice in the days of auction or in the first days of contract, but Oswald Jacoby, a few other Americans and a few Europeans discovered it in the early '30s.

It is rather hard to understand but by now has become part of every expert's kit of plays.

South is not happy with the dummy. He has to lose the ace of diamonds and must avoid the loss of a trump trick if he wants to make his contract. The odds are definitely against him.

He plays the king of spades and West drops the jack. If West failed to drop the jack, South would have no choice but to try to break the suit 2-2; but now he has a chance to finesse.

He should not finesse on the rule of "eight ever, nine never," but this is a different case. If West held queen-jack, he might well have played the queen. If he held the singleton jack, he had no choice.

Assuming West is the sort of player who is equally likely to play the jack or the queen when he has the choice, the odds in favor of a finesse are almost nine to five. Those are pretty good odds and the finesse is clearly indicated.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Is Meat Needed For Good Diet?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — My teen-aged sister and her friends don't like the idea of eating meat because it is a dead animal. I told her that your body needs the protein to rebuild itself. Is it possible to get enough protein from other foods to eliminate meat from the diet?

Dear Reader — Yes, it is. Strict vegetarians are living proof of this. Not only that, many vegetarians are in exceptionally good health. One reason for their good health is that eating a strictly non-animal product diet usually tends to eliminate a lot of calories, particularly those that come from animal fats. In general, individuals who avoid eating excess numbers of calories and excess amounts of fat in their diet are healthier than most of the rest of the general population, if they don't overdo it.

It is true that the body needs a variety of sources for protein. Studies have been done, however, that show that the body can get by on proteins from gelatin (which is an animal product) and the protein from wheat. It is usually better for the health to be sure that the body gets a variety of types of proteins. Some non-meat sources include the dairy products (and if you need to restrict the saturated fat intake, you would want to use non-fat and low-fat dairy products such as fortified skim milk and uncreamed cottage cheese). The whites of eggs are a particularly good source of protein. The mature seeds of the bean family usually contain a lot of protein. Soy beans are a principal source of proteins in the vegetarian diet. They are relatively rich in protein. People who don't eat meat, fish, or chicken need to know a lot more about diet than some young people following harmful fads do.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to know if bleeding from the rectum can be the symptom of something more serious than just a very bad case of hemorrhoids. I don't mean just a showing of blood; he really bleeds, especially after a bowel movement. If he has had anything to drink, the bleeding is more.

Dear Reader — There are constant numbers of letters to this column concerning this problem. It is exceptionally important that everyone recognize that bleeding from the rectum can represent serious diseases. In some instances, it is the first sign of cancer of the rectum, although there are many other causes for it including hemorrhoids. No case of bleeding from hemorrhoids, however, should be ignored. Each one deserves a medical examination because what is thought to be hemorrhoids may even turn out to be cancer. There is only one recommendation that I can probably make to people with this problem: seek a medical examination as soon as possible. There is no other reasonable alternative.

Green Chile With Cheese Savory Dip

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Look into Mexican cookbooks and the chances are you'll come upon recipes for Chile con Queso (Green Chile with Cheese). This is a savory dip that the Mexican cookbooks suggest you serve with corn chips or tostadas (fried quartered corn tortillas) at cocktail time or with refried beans and tortillas at brunch. Offered this way, Chile con Queso is extremely popular in the American Southwest and in California. New York cooks sometimes serve the dip with vegetables, raw or parboiled.

When the weather is warm Chile con Queso tastes good with iced tea. To make the tea add 8 to 10 teabags (tags removed) to a quart of cold tap water. Cover container and let stand at room temperature or in the refrigerator for at least 6 hours or overnight. Squeeze teabags as you remove them and stir the tea. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Makes 5 to 6 servings. Amounts may be doubled. Since cold water prevents the tea from clouding.

CHILE CON QUESO
2 medium tomatoes (peeled, seeded and chopped)
1 can (4 ounces) whole roasted green chilies (drained, seeds removed and chopped)
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, cubed
1/4 cup milk

Drained canned cut-up pimiento

In a 1-quart saucepan simmer tomatoes, chilies, onion and seasoned salt, stirring often, for 10 minutes.

Add cream cheese and milk; over very low heat stir until cream cheese has melted and mixture is warm.

Serve warm in a chafing dish over hot water as a dip; garnish with pimiento.

Any leftover dip may be refrigerated in a covered container and used as a cracker spread.

Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Accompaniments for Chile Con Queso:

Cauliflower flowerets, green pepper squares, carrot sticks, celery sticks and asparagus tips may be used for dunking in the dip. Or the vegetable combination might be broccoli flowerets with part of the stalk left on, pared zucchini sticks, carrot sticks and celery sticks. The vegetables may be served raw or parboiled; to parboil cover vegetables with boiling water and boil about 2 minutes; drain and chill.

Other accompaniments for the dip could be corn chips, potato chips or corn tortillas cut into quarters and fried until crisp.

BI-CYCLE CLUB PLANS RACES AT CASS EVENT

BEARDSTOWN — An unusual feature of the Fourth of July celebration to be held here on the occasion of the annual Elks fireworks display and band concert at Swimming Pool park will be bicycle races.

The newly organized Bi-Cycle club is planning the bike races in several different categories for people of all ages.

The bikes to be used may be three wheelers or two wheelers it has been announced. Wayne Friday, president of the club, says that a suggestion to obtain orange colored vests for all members is being investigated.

The club has sponsored several rides for Sunday enthusiasts, including a jaunt to the local airport and one long ride out the Sangamon Valley road.

Gary Moore is the ride captain.

Lewis Resigns
Guy A. Lewis, 608 W. 7th street, an active member of the Beardstown post of the American Legion for many years, has announced his resignation as Beardstown Post commander. He is in ill health and cannot continue the duties, he said.

Paul Schaefer has been named acting commander and will complete the term to which Mr. Lewis was elected.

Summer Reading
The Summer Reading program for children who have completed kindergarten and are in 5th grade or below will begin June 19 and last through July 28.

It will be conducted at the public library and enrollment will be continued through June 16.

Volunteer Library aides under the direction of Miss Debbie Shoemaker will conduct the 45 minute story hours.

Asolo Florida's Unusual Theater

Editor's Note — Far off Broadway, drama has found an impressive home. It began as a college adjunct; hard work and local pride have made it the only long-sustained professional repertory theater in the Southeast. Its name: Asolo.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) —

Tigers and clowns once were the big lure. Now people list Asolo as a prime reason for stopping by—and coming back.

As almost everyone from the Keys to Pensacola knows, Asolo (say AHS-olo) is Florida's official state theater, and an exceptional example of regional dramatic enterprise.

The name is borrowed from an Italian village near Venice where Napoleon's troops saw plays in the elegant little auditorium that now stands here on the grounds of the Ringling Museum.

Faded rococo paintings and all, the interior of the playhouse was transplanted here in a rare burst of cultural enthusiasm by the state legislature.

"We are at a turning point," says Richard G. Fallon, chief of the complex project. "We've got stability at last, at least as far as that is ever theatrically possible."

But while endeavor in the performing arts occasionally ebbs elsewhere, Asolo currently may boast its 13th consecutive season, the only long-sustained professional repertory in the southeastern United States.

"The driving inspiration," says Bettilu Lewis, a key fundraiser, "is that nothing has been imposed from outside. We have a group of people for whom just the idea of creating Asolo has been sufficient stimulus to working together."

Howard J. Millman, the adroit, soft-spoken managing director, stresses another aspect of how to make theater successful.

"I'm always telling people they should treat Asolo the same as a library. If you don't like a particular book, you go and get another one. So if you don't like one play, come back and see another. Don't write a nasty letter."

Through the February-to-September season, the 16-man Equity troupe presents 10 plays, of which six can be seen in a usual week. The 1972 display ranges from a new dramatization of "Dracula" through such familiars as "Hay Fever" and "The Front Page" to "The House of Blue Leaves," last year's New York Drama Critics Circle winner.

During the previous season, the company played to 55,000 spectators at the Asolo and another 60,000 in public and school performances during the four-month tour that completes its year-round operation.

The operating tab now is $510,000, compared to $3,000 which covered tentative launching in 1960. Though designated the state theater in 1965, Asolo gets its first legislative grant, $60,000, for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Two-thirds of the revenue comes from an ultra-complicated assortment of 38 ticket-purchase offers devised to encourage group attendance. The top price for a single ticket is a modest $5.90.

"Since there are only 300 seats and we don't want to increase rates that means we've got to look more and more to other income sources," Adolph

"Chick" Frankel points out. Frankel is a retired corporation executive who divides his time between enthusiastic lobbying at the capital in Tallahassee for multiple arts ventures and heading the Asolo Theater Festival Association.

The association comprises 1,800 "angels" who contribute an average of $21 each to Asolo's support. Three years ago there were only 243.

The ironic genesis of the city's enthusiasm for cultural matters was the presence of John Ringling, who made Sarasota the winter home for his circus.

"The greatest show on earth" moved south to Florida's Venice in 1959, but the huge Ringling estate and circus museum were turned over to the public.

The imported Asolo, built in 1798, was quietly installed on the property alongside a rich gallery of paintings. There it stood in unused splendor until 1960 when Dr. Arthur Orlag and Fallon came down from Florida State University at Tallahassee.

They got permission for a short season of performances by graduate students. The arrangement continued for several years. Then a federal grant enabled creation of a company to tour public schools.

By 1968 the switch to professional activity had sent operating deficits soaring. A new corporation was formed under which Asolo remained an adjunct of FSU's drama department with five key members of the staff faculty members.

BAPTIST CLASS TO MEET JUNE 15 AT ROODHOUSE

ROODHOUSE — The Semper Fidelis class of the Roodhouse First Baptist church will meet at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hart, east of town for a picnic to begin at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, June 15.

Mrs. Charles Peterson, St. Louis, Mo., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lee Lewis of Roodhouse.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Roodhouse accompanied her sister, Mrs. Helen M. Leach and son, Gene, of Concord, Calif., to Peoria, Saturday where they attended a family dinner. Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hartman, Mrs. Margaret Hartman Morgan and An-di, East Peoria Mrs. Chris Corwin, Elgin; Mrs. Joy (Marta) Hartman and Joey, Bloomington.

At one o'clock the same day, the group attended the wedding of a great-niece, Peggy June Sandlin, and Larry W. Johnson, East Peoria, held in that city at the First United Methodist church.

Saturday evening Mrs. Taylor, city; Mrs. Helen M. Leach, Concord, Calif.; and Mrs. Chris Corwin, Elgin, attended the high school alumni banquet held in Carrollton.

NEW SERVICE — NEW YORK (UPI) — Marrying couples may write their own wedding vows under the new marriage service developed by the Inter-Lutheran commission on Worship. Otherwise, they may use a promise which pledges them to "share all that is to come, to give and to receive, to speak and to listen, to inspire and to respond, and in all circumstances of our life together to be loyal with my whole life and with all my being."

every day.

Alumna Travels From Caribbean

CHANDLERVILLE — Mrs. Charles Aars left Tuesday for her home in Curacao, Netherlands, Antilles following a week's visit here. She has been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kennedy. Mrs. Aars, the former Pauline Murphy, is a former Chandlerville resident. She attended the Alumni banquet Friday evening.

Mrs. Effie Wiseman attended the recent eighth grade graduation in Franklin. Her grandson, Jerry Hermes, was a member of the class. She also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hermes.

Mr. and Mrs. David Glick and Mrs. Arthur Glick were in Pekin Monday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Urban Waddell and family. That evening they attended the high school graduation exercise. Linda Waddell was a member of the senior class.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Markely of Canton were Sunday afternoon visitors of her uncle, Watson Trowbridge.

Editor's Note—American medicine's view from the left—the Medical Committee for Human Rights. Founded in 1964 to help civil rights demonstrators, it has expanded into a broad-based organization, with the radicals of the 1960s side by side with organized labor.

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Their styles were different, but their aim was the same.

An unlikely mix of long-haired, casually-garbed health workers met with neatly dressed union representatives to talk about occupational health hazards.

It was the national convention of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, a scene being re-enacted on a smaller scale throughout the country.

Heretofore, the twain have not met.

"MCHR has been able to do what no other radicals have been able to do—get together with the unions," says Dr. Quentin Young, the Chicago physician who serves as national MCHR chairman.

The Teamsters were there, the Auto Workers, the Steelworkers' Electrical Workers, the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, and the Kentucky Black Lung Association.

They talked with doctors and nurses and technicians as well as some nonhealth workers, about conditions in the factories and mines which injure the workers or make them ill.

Participants came from across the country to discuss their concerns.

Health care for those who do not receive adequate care was the prime concern of this convention of MCHR, which is credited with having first promoted the principle: "Health care is a right—not a privilege."

Small groups of the 600 delegates met to talk about medical care for prisoners, the mentally retarded, rural areas, women, homosexuals, psychiatric patients, the aged.

The Medical Committee for Human Rights began in 1964 when doctors organized to go South to treat civil rights demonstrators. Since then, its activities have expanded along with its membership, which now includes nurses, technicians, medical students, social workers, and hospital workers.

There are some 10,000 members in 74 local chapters across the country, and Young estimates there are another 20,000 to 30,000 sympathizers.

Dr. H. Jack Geiger, professor and chairman of the department of community medicine at the State University of New York, Stony Brook, said that MCHR has "established a national voice out of proportion to its numbers."

"In the last few years," Geiger said, "MCHR has emerged as the only major voice of health professionals other than the American Medical Association with a set of alternatives to the AMA position on problems of health care and questions related to it in this country."

Irene Turner, a health care planner of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago, sees MCHR as "a voice on the left which raises key issues" that other health organizations do not concern themselves with.

AMA positions are encrusted, she said, and when MCHR tackles questions about the health care system as a whole it must be in opposition to the AMA.

Dr. Myron Wegman, dean of the University of Michigan school of public health and president of the American Public Health Association, speaks favorably of MCHR.

While the organization has "gone farther than I would in some of its approaches," he said, its members "have stood up on their hind legs and supported some controversial causes."

MCHR testified before the House Ways and Means Committee in a hearing on health legislation.

The testimony alleges that none of the pending national health insurance proposals seriously confronts the fundamental issues about the American health care system—"profiteering, public accountability and consumer control, accessibility, and racial and sex discrimination."

"The profit motive seriously distorts medical practice: unnecessary operations are performed; useless or even dangerous drugs are pondered on the public; patients are hospitalized who could be cared for at home; unnecessary tests are performed; and money is spent on expensive, sophisticated technology to the neglect of primary patient care."

"Billions of dollars for health care are diverted by drug and medical supply companies, health insurance companies and nursing homes into profits, advertising and administration."

Last year, Richard Friedman, Republican candidate for mayor of Chicago running against Richard J. Daley, addressed the MCHR Chicago chapter and told its members, "You are the conscience of medicine in this city."

A less flattering view is presented by the warden of Cook County (Chicago) Jail, Winston E. Moore, who turned down an invitation from MCHR to discuss upgrading of medical care for prisoners.

"I am categorically rejecting this invitation and any future invitations for discussion by your organization," Moore wrote in a letter.

Dr. Eli Messinger, a New York psychiatrist and former national chairman of MCHR, was one of 12 medical students, doctors and nurses from New York City who sought unsuccessfully to aid prisoners at Attica state prison last autumn when 42 persons were killed in a prison rebellion and scores of others injured.

The group obtained a court order to gain entry to provide care for the injured, but prison officials refused to honor it. The order was later rescinded by the court.

Messinger wrote of the experience in MCHR's newspaper:

"I take the position that prisons and custodial mental hospitals should be abolished. This solution is a necessary, but not sufficient, step toward creation of a just and non-exploitive society."

MCHR was successful in a suit with lawyers for the "Panther 21" in New York City in gaining release from the Women's House of Detention for one of the defendants so she could have her baby outside of jail. The defendants later were acquitted.

Jane Kennedy, former chairwoman of the Chicago MCHR chapter and a nursing instructor at the University of Chicago, was jailed in Indianapolis and Detroit after being convicted for destruction of computer tapes at Dow Chemical Co. in an antiwar action.

Miss Kennedy charged that prisoners work as many as 13 hours a day for 25 cents a day. Then, she alleges, the prisoners are overcharged for items in the prison commissary. A jar of coffee which sells for 90 cents in stores is priced $1.25 in prison, she said.

MCHR works with such legal groups as the American Civil Liberties Union, the National Lawyers Guild and the Peoples Law Office in seeking to gain legal entry into jails and prisons.

These groups, along with ex-offender groups and the American Friends Service Committee, participated in the prison task force workshop at the MCHR national convention.

"Prisoners have enormous health problems," Young said. "If they don't have them when they go in, they develop them." Lack of exercise, bad food, the psychological climate and lack of treatment contribute to prisoners' ill health, he said.

The occupational health experts within MCHR probably represent a fairly sizable percentage of those in the country. Young points out that little attention is given in medical schools to occupational health.

Dr. Phyllis Cullen, who heads this aspect of MCHR work, told a workshop group, "One thing we've found out about doctors is that they don't know much about occupational health."

Nat Spero, research director for the United Electrical Workers Union, New York City, said, "Company doctors act as prostitutes." He asserted that they try to get men back to work before they are well or, if the company wishes, keep them away from work longer than necessary.

Pat Murchie, chief administrative officer of MCHR, said the organization has "invested tremendous energies in occupational health because there is no better way to meet the needs of the workers, who make up such a vast portion of the population of this country."

Dr. William Bronston of Staten Island, N.Y., who exposed maltreatment of mentally retarded patients at Willowbrook Hospital, charged that the "system of services to the handicapped in every state is genocidal."

Willowbrook is the largest institution of its kind in the world, Bronston said, with 5,300 patients. Budget cuts by the state resulted in the deaths of 40 patients above the average in one year, he said.

Some of the other concerns of MCHR were put forth in resolutions adopted at the conclusion of the 1972 convention.

On consumers—"MCHR believes that power—which is the ability to make and enforce decisions—should belong to those affected by it."

On mental health—"The 'mental health system,' like the rest of society, must be dramatically changed for the benefit of the people it oppresses: workers, 'patients,' and professionals."

On homosexuality—"MCHR recognizes that lesbians and gay men are an oppressed people, with the medical profession as one of the greatest promoters of this oppression."

On national health insurance—"We declare our intention to offer all assistance possible in joint effort with organizations and individuals working for health legislation that will assure health care as the right of all."

Education Bill Defeated By Republicans

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — House Republicans beat back Wednesday a Democratic plan which calls for the distribution of $911 million to public schools during the fiscal year beginning next month.

The proposal, backed by Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction, was defeated 85 to 84 with solid Republican opposition.

The Democrats had attempted to tack it onto another education bill, which already had been amended to include Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's formula for distributing state funds for elementary and secondary schools.

The governor's proposal would send $788 million to the schools under a complicated distributive formula. It now has the best chance of such proposals in the lower chamber.

The distributive funds comprise the bulk of the state's billion-dollar-plus funds expected to go to primary education in the next fiscal year.

Bakalis has proposed an overall funding of $1.33 billion while Ogilvie has submitted $1.08 billion. The governor's budget proposal had been approved by the School Problems Commission, which customarily recommends education appropriations bills to the General Assembly.

Bakalis has said that the Ogilvie formula is drastically below the amount of money needed by the schools and is contrary to the governor's commitment to make education an area of top priority.

In arguing for the Ogilvie plan, Rep. Gene Hoffman, R-Elmhurst, said that if the Democratic formula were tacked onto the legislation he would not be able to get the measure through the House.

A Senate bill, which includes the Bakalis school formula, recently received 28 votes in the upper chamber—two shy of being passed—and is on postponed consideration. Its sponsor is expected to bring the legislation up for another vote before the end of this session.

The two school aid formulas have been a focal point of partisan debate ever since Ogilvie announced his budget March 1.

Bakalis has charged that the governor talks a great deal about helping education, but does not do much about it—as exemplified, according to the Democrats—by his aid formula.

Ogilvie said the state does not have enough money to go around to allocate $1.33 billion for elementary and secondary education, but Bakalis said that a shift of 1.5 per cent in the overall $7.4 billion budget would result in enough money for his formula.

In debate before the House Wednesday, proponents emphasized the critical financial plight that most schools are in across the state and the constitutional requirements which call for the state to assume responsibility for funding most of the educational costs.

"Our schools are being choked and are being stifled," declared Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, adding that the governor's plan would not adequately help the districts in their finances.

"The state has been given the primary responsibility to finance the schools," said Rep. Arthur Berman, D-Chicago "and under the governor's proposal the state would be moving backward in its responsibility to fund the schools."

Supporters of the Ogilvie plan replied, however, by saying that the money is just not available and "it's time to talk sense to the people of Illinois."

Convict Nolder Turns Self In After 25 Years

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Ethel Nolder, 65, turned himself over to Illinois prison officials, saying he wanted to get everything "straightened out" after living under an assumed name for 38 years.

Nolder, who hasn't been heard from since he violated parole conditions in 1934, walked into the Pontiac State Prison Tuesday and surrendered to Warden John J. Petrilli.

He said he quit his job Monday as a chef in a Cleveland athletic club to "put his life in order."

Petrilli said records show Nolder was sentenced in 1931 to serve one to 10 years in prison for grand larceny from McLean County. He was released on a five-year parole in 1932 and hasn't been heard from since 1934, Petrilli said.

Petrilli said Nolder told him he had used the alias of Norman P. Gorby and served three years in the service during World War II, married twice and worked as a cook for 25 years.

His first wife died and he is separated from his second wife, Petrilli quoted Nolder. Neither woman knew of his past, he said.

Nolder was admitted to the prison hospital while officials checked his records in preparation for another review before the pardon and parole board.

"Things look good around here," Petrilli quoted Nolder as saying when he arrived at the prison Tuesday. "There have been changes but everybody looks pleasant."

BA DEGREE FOR RICHARD COLLINS

C. Richard Collins, son of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Collins, formerly of Jacksonville now of Rock Island, graduated from the University of Evansville in commencement exercises June 11 at Evansville, Indiana. YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

THURSDAY, JUNE 15—Born today, you are a blunt, outspoken person who is sometimes more concerned with speaking out in an honest, straightforward fashion than in protecting other people's feelings. Because of this, there are many who fear you outright—and many more who go out of their way not to antagonize you in any way. Yet you are a marvelous conversationalist, being at home with any number of subjects and having a way with words that makes you concise, clear, and entertaining at the same time that you are instructive.

Fond of the outdoors, you will find it more and more important to your sense of well-being that you spend some time every week getting close to nature. Because you are characteristically aggressive, you should take a great deal of pleasure out of whatever challenges nature offers you. Except for the fact that you have a desire to lead when it might be wiser for you to follow, you would be an exceptionally good addition to any group dedicated to outdoor adventure. Learn to take direction.

Although yours is an affectionate nature, you sometimes go to a great deal of trouble to hide your true feelings—a characteristic which strikes many as odd, since in all other ways you are so open. Somewhat timid in your relationships with members of the opposite sex, you may be a long while getting to the point of marriage. Permanent happiness in marriage should ultimately be yours, however, in spite of a late start.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, June 16 — GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Keep your own counsel this morning. By the time afternoon rolls around, you should be able to offer an opinion with virtual impunity.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Tenacity pays off this afternoon. The project you have insisted upon completing even against the advice of those whose views you respect, goes well.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Take care that disappointment doesn't cause you to become embittered about one whose friendship has been important to you through the years.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — You might be wise not to give yourself away as far as plans for the immediate future are concerned. Make yourself a schedule — and keep to it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Morning struggle with basic principles of a new phase of your work may leave you in need of rest. Make it brief, however; afternoon hours offer opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Morning efforts may not meet with much success, but discouragement over poor results will only serve to diminish benefits from afternoon labors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Recognize others' abilities and you will be better able to put up with their peculiarities. Don't hesitate to pay compliments where deserved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Tell only what you don't mind others passing on. If you want anything kept secret, you must be the first one to keep the confidence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — The more tenacious you are to your ideals—in spite of temptation to forsake them—the happier you'll be in the long run.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — The thing which you most enjoy is that which should take your time today. Duty can be shelved for the time being—unless it and interest coincide.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — The Aries who sticks to a single endeavor today should meet with considerable success by evening. Take care a friend doesn't get the jump on you.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Though you may dislike heavy work, this may be required of you if you are to be on the way toward a new goal. Meet the day's demands.

FIFTY-YEAR PIN FOR BEARDSTOWN ELK FRANK WESSEL — The fifth member of the Beardstown Elks club to receive a 50-year pin is Frank C. Wessel, retired local contractor and member of the Cass county Housing Authority. Wessel was honored at the club Saturday night when Harry Richards, past president of Illinois Elks, was the main speaker.

Others getting 50 year pins in earlier years were Fred Cline, A.G. Schultz, F.M. Condit and E. Miller Dunn, all now deceased.

Associated Press Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Privies, not police, may prove to be the biggest problem for the 100,000 protesters expected at this summer's national political conventions, says the man responsible for public sanitation facilities.

"We project that we'll need about 500 portable toilets—minimum—to provide facilities for a crowd of 100,000 campers," said John Eckoff of the Dade County Public Health Department.

"Even with 500 portable toilets, that would allow each person only six minutes a day on a 24-hour-a-day basis," Eckoff said. "They'll have to line up for blocks during the daytime when everybody's up and about. I can guarantee you that nobody's going to get a chance to do much reading."

Eckoff said Tuesday that it would cost about $115,000 to provide and service 500 portable toilets from the July 10 opening of the Democratic National Convention to the end of the Republican National Convention Aug. 23.

A coalition of protest groups including the Yippies, Gay Liberation Front, Vietnam Veterans Against the War and Southern Christian Leadership Conference has asked the city to provide camping space for 100,000 nondelegates for the six-week period.

"It wouldn't be so bad if these protesters were only going to be here for a few days," Eckoff said, "but we'll have them around for a month or six weeks. An awful lot of health problems can develop in that time."

"Some of them are going to be doing their own cooking, and we know that could mean outbreaks of intestinal diseases," he said. "Now suppose 15,000—that's only 15 per cent—come down with the GIs (diarrhea). What are we going to do?"

Eckoff said the city also could face a major problem with water and food supplies for the protesters.

"Another thing we're worrying about is garbage," Eckoff said. "It's going to take more trash cans and more manpower to haul away garbage from the campsites, otherwise we're faced with another disease-threatening situation."

Associated Press Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Privies, not police, may prove to be the biggest problem for the 100,000 protesters expected at this summer's national political conventions, says the man responsible for public sanitation facilities.

"We project that we'll need about 500 portable toilets—minimum—to provide facilities for a crowd of 100,000 campers," said John Eckoff of the Dade County Public Health Department.

"Even with 500 portable toilets, that would allow each person only six minutes a day on a 24-hour-a-day basis," Eckoff said. "They'll have to line up for blocks during the daytime when everybody's up and about. I can guarantee you that nobody's going to get a chance to do much reading."

Eckoff said Tuesday that it would cost about $115,000 to provide and service 500 portable toilets from the July 10 opening of the Democratic National Convention to the end of the Republican National Convention Aug. 23.

A coalition of protest groups including the Yippies, Gay Liberation Front, Vietnam Veterans Against the War and Southern Christian Leadership Conference has asked the city to provide camping space for 100,000 nondelegates for the six-week period.

"It wouldn't be so bad if these protesters were only going to be here for a few days," Eckoff said, "but we'll have them around for a month or six weeks. An awful lot of health problems can develop in that time."

"Some of them are going to be doing their own cooking, and we know that could mean outbreaks of intestinal diseases," he said. "Now suppose 15,000—that's only 15 per cent—come down with the GIs (diarrhea). What are we going to do?"

Eckoff said the city also could face a major problem with water and food supplies for the protesters.

"Another thing we're worrying about is garbage," Eckoff said. "It's going to take more trash cans and more manpower to haul away garbage from the campsites, otherwise we're faced with another disease-threatening situation."

Pony League

Police downed Hertzberg 6-3 before the rain came in Pony League action on a muddy field Wednesday.

The second game between Lapsden Insurance and Olsons Cleaners was rained out.

Bob Manker hit and pitched the victory as he got to base in all three times at bat and held the opposition to only one hit. Hertzberg was handicapped by four errors, while Police was charged with two.

Police scored four runs in the top of the third to break the scoreless tie.

legue players, which takes place annually after each pro season. "I think it will be possible to get the merger passed through Congress despite opposition from the player's association," he said.

The merger bill, which has been stymied in a Senate subcommittee since last September and been bitterly opposed by subcommittee chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., also has met strong disapproval from the NBA Players Association, headed by Oscar Robertson of the Milwaukee Bucks.

"There has been no question that their opposition (the players' association) has caused a delay," said Kennedy on the eve of the NBA Board of Governors' meetings in this plush resort area. "But I believe that both congressional bodies will approve the bill without the players' approval."

Merger will be one of the major topics of discussion when the governors begin their two-day meeting Thursday.

The commissioner also said the committee that has been negotiating with the players' association will make a report on possible modifications of the option clause—a cause of major concern to the players and one of the reasons they are fighting the proposed merger.

Other items on the agenda include possible action against the players who participated in the unsanctioned all-star game against the ABA at Uniondale, N.Y. on May 25; discussion on the possible sale or transfer of the Boston Celtics; approval of sale announced Tuesday night of the Chicago Bulls; scheduling, and rule changes.

Grieve Leads Rangers 7-1 Over Brewers

ARLINGTON (AP)—Tom Grieve drilled a two-run double to highlight a six-run rally in the fourth inning, leading the Texas Rangers past the Milwaukee Brewers 7-1 Wednesday night.

Rich Hand, whose squeeze bunt capped the six-run explosion, combined with Paul Lindblad for a four-hitter to win his third game in seven decisions.

Southpaw Ken Brett, 2-8, retired the first 10 Rangers before Lenny Randle singled to center for the first of five straight Ranger hits in the fourth.

Ted Ford followed with a double scoring Randle and Dick Billings' single moved Ford to third. Howard's double scored Ford and Grieve's double scored Billings and Howard.

Toby Harrah drew an intentional pass and Ted Kublak drove in Grieve with a single before Hand's bunt scored Harrah.

WHA Hockey Squad Signs Hull Brother

OTTAWA (AP)—The World Hockey Association signed a Hull Wednesday—Bobby's brother Garry.

The Ottawa Nationals said Garry, 28, kid brother of the Chicago Black Hawks' Golden Jet and Dennis, signed a one-year contract.

"We signed a one-year contract so Garry can prove his worth and then set his price accordingly," explained Ottawa president Doug Michel.

The youngest Hull has spent the last few years looking after Dennis' farm in Millbrook, Ont. He played Junior A hockey in Whitby and signed a tryout form with Chicago. When assigned to Dallas, Garry decided to come back to Canada and work on the farm.

The Nationals said he played senior hockey in Millbrook last year, averaging two goals a game.

Yankees Shutout White Sox, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Solo home runs by Johnny Callison and Bobby Murcer and the four-hit pitching of Mike Kekich and Sparky Lyle carried the New York Yankees to a 3-0 victory over Chicago Wednesday night, ending the White Sox' six-game winning streak.

Callison cracked his second home run of the season in the first inning off Tom Bradley, ending a string of two consecutive shutouts for the Yankees, and Murcer connected in the fifth. Bradley, 7-3, struck out nine in five innings before leaving for a pinch hitter.

New York added a run off Vicente Romo in the sixth on singles by Thurman Munson, his first hit in 20 at-bats, and Gene Michael and Kekich's squeeze bunt.

Kekich, 5-5, collared the White Sox on three hits through six innings but left in the seventh after Rick Reichardt doubled with one out and Bill Meltz on walked. Lyle came on to strike out Mike Andrews and retire Rich Morales on a fly.

Marvin Fishman Resigns Post With Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Marvin L. Fishman, identified Tuesday as head of a group which purchased the Chicago Bulls, submitted his resignation Wednesday from Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services, Inc., parent corporation of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Bulls and Bucks are in the National Basketball Association.

Fishman, vice chairman of the board of the Bucks' organization, asked that his resignation be made effective immediately.

A board spokesman said Fishman's action was based on the potential conflict of interest arising from ownership in two NBA teams.

New York Clips Braves By 8-3

ATLANTA (AP)—Duffy Dyer crashed a three-run homer and Cleon Jones drove in two runs as the New York Mets whipped the Atlanta Braves 8-3 Wednesday night and climbed back into first place in the National League East.

Coupled with Pittsburgh's 3-1 loss to San Francisco, the triumph pushed the Mets one-half game ahead of the Pirates.

The victory, only New York's fourth in its last 12 games, came despite the 651st career home run for Atlanta's Hank Aaron, a blow that moved him into a tie with Eddie Collins for fifth place on the all-time hit list at 3,511.

The Mets wrapped it up with a four-run salvo in the ninth against Cecil Upshaw and Mike McQueen. Ken Boswell walked and John Milner and Jones singled for one run. With two out, Dyer tagged McQueen for his fifth home run of the season.

Willie Mays, who singled and scored on Rusty Staub's sacrifice fly in the first, doubled in the fourth, scoring Ted Martinez, who had walked. Staub singled and scored on Jones' double in the third and Wayne Garrett singled home Staub in the seventh.

The Mets thus snapped a three-game losing streak as Jon Matlack posted his seventh victory in nine decisions. The loss went to Braves starter Jim Nash, 1-1.

Cubs' Home Runs Swamp Padres 12-9

CHICAGO (AP)—Ron Santo clubbed a three-run homer in the sixth inning Wednesday, climaxing a six-run explosion that carried the Chicago Cubs to a 12-9 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Billy Williams and Jose Cardenal also homered for Chicago as the Cubs battered six San Diego pitchers for 16 hits, sending the Padres down to their 11th defeat in 13 games.

A single by Don Kessinger off losing reliever Ed Acosta, 1-3, started the sixth-inning outburst. Mike Caldwell replaced Acosta and gave up a single to Williams and a run-scoring double to Jim Hickman that broke a 6-6 tie.

After a walk to Carmen Fanzone that loaded the bases, Rick Monday lashed a two-run double, then Mike Cirkins took the mound and surrendered Santo's homer, his seventh of the season.

A walk, Williams' ninth homer and Cardenal's seventh gave the Cubs three runs in the first inning.

Larry Stahl homered for the Padres in the top of the second, but Chicago made it 5-1 in the bottom of the inning.

Randy Hundley singled in a run for Chicago in the third and rookie Dave Roberts did the same for San Diego in the fourth, then the Padres tied it in the sixth off winner Ferguson Jenkins, 8-5, on Clarence Gaston's pinch-hit grand-slam homer.

Trevino Arrives Ailing, Aiming

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)

—Lee Trevino, his face drawn and his voice a hoarse, rasping croak, winged into Pebble Beach Wednesday to defend his United States Open Golf Championship.

"No, I'm still not feeling very good," Trevino said, but grinned and added: "But I came to play. That's what I'm here for. I sure didn't come all the way out here to gallery them other cats."

The Super Max, one of the game's greatest gate attractions and most popular players, left an El Paso hospital only Tuesday after a bout with viral pneumonia.

"I went from the hospital right to a golf course, the El Paso Country Club," Trevino said, "and I shot 65. Five birdies and an eagle."

"If I'm putting here like I did yesterday, it's all over. I don't have to hit any greens. I can putt from off the fairway."

Trevino said he still has "a very bad cold and I've got some chest congestion."

Asked if he was still taking medication, Trevino laughed and hefted a brief case he was carrying.

"Drugs? You want some? I got all the kinds there are. I got some that make you walk on water. Some that let you swim. Some that let you fly. Some that do almost anything."

He had entered the hospital in El Paso last weekend after withdrawing following the second round of the IVB-Philadelphia Classic.

played 18 holes in a downpour. "I had a touch of bronchitis and some pneumonia," he said. "I think I got it in Cleveland at National Golf Day when we played 18 holes in a downpour."

"I hadn't been feeling good ever since. I tried to shake it but I just couldn't do it."

He was met at the Monterey Peninsula airport by some friends and left immediately for the Pebble Beach Golf Links to get in a practice round over the 6,801 yard, par 72 ocean-side layout.

He hedged when asked if he could go the entire four rounds. "I don't know. I just don't know," he said, then flashed that infectious grin. "But hell, at this time, if you miss the cut after two rounds, they still give you $600. That ain't bad."

He said he had been exercising in the hospital.

"I had some weights brought in and I worked with them, both my legs and arms," he said.

"I had a carpet brought in, too. About 20 feet long. I worked on my putting stroke on it. It's been pretty good. I've been working on a little something different. Sometimes I said he isn't playing as well as he was earlier in the season."

Devlin also won once, despite restricting his tour appearances to concentrate on his golf course architecture business.

Crampton hasn't won, but has been in position to do so a half dozen times. He has been one of the most consistent players on the tour this season, but said he isn't playing as well as he was earlier in the season.

Bench Drives Cincinnati By Phillies, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP)—Johnny Bench drove in both Cincinnati runs with a homer and sacrifice fly as the sizzling Reds edged Philadelphia 2-1 Wednesday night for their seventh consecutive victory and 26th in their last 32 games.

Cincinnati took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Joe Morgan drew his 41st walk of the season, took third on Bobby Tolman's single and came home on Bench's short fly ball to center.

Bench's long homer made it 2-0 in the fourth. It was his 17th homer and 47th run batted in, both tops in the majors.

The Phils closed the gap to 2-1 in the seventh when Willie Montanez led off with a double and scored on a single by Tommy Hutton.

Jack Billingham, 4-6, retired the first 13 Phillies before Hutton singled. He needed help from Clay Carroll after Willie Montanez singled with two out in the ninth for the fifth Philadelphia hit. Barry Lersch, 1-3, was the loser.

Survey Shows

Strike Hasn't Hurt The Gate

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball fans have not turned away from the sport because of the first general strike in its history. That conclusion was drawn Wednesday from a survey of baseball attendance through the first nine weeks of the season by Harry Simmons, an administrative assistant to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The survey leads to two major points:

—Because of the strike and the playing dates that were missed, baseball attendance this season will not equal last year's. The conclusion to be drawn is that the strike will hurt the owners in the pocketbook.

—Comparing the first nine weeks of this season with corresponding playing dates last year, attendance shows a slight increase. The conclusion to be drawn is that fans have not stayed away because of the strike.

In the survey, Simmons deals with two sets of figures—parallel and overall. The parallel figures are the key to the answer of the major question of whether the fans would turn their backs on their favorite players because they went out on strike.

And the answer to that is unequivocal: No. The parallel figures compare playing dates through games of June 11 this season with the corresponding number of playing dates last season. That discounts the attendance lost during the strike—a total of 84 games.

The figures then show that for parallel periods, major league attendance this season is up 126,867—or 1.6 per cent—over the corresponding period last season. In other words, more fans are attending games this year since the strike ended than attended games last year at the same time.

However, major league baseball has been hard hit by the strike, for when overall attendance figures are considered—1972 attendance vs. 1971 when there were no lost playing dates due to a strike—the end result has been lost attendance.

Because of those lost playing dates, attendance currently is off 1,419,240 compared to last year. Even if the 1.6 per cent increase continues throughout the season, the total loss figures to be about 1.2 million.

The survey also reveals these other interesting points: —Five clubs—Cleveland and Chicago in the American League and Pittsburgh, Houston and San Diego in the National League—have posted attendance increases overall even with the dates lost to the strike.

—San Francisco and Baltimore show the largest declines in attendance, both parallel and overall.

—The Chicago White Sox have the biggest attendance increase in both categories.

Arnold Palmer Still Dreaming

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer walked over to one of the concession stands here, asked for a hot dog and a coke, paid for them, helped himself to some mustard and looked around for a receptacle in which to deposit the paper wrapper.

He found one near the press tent and disposed of the wrapper rather carefully, taking care that it wasn't whipped out by one of those sudden gusts of wind you get here off the Pacific Ocean.

Arnold Palmer is not a litterbug.

You look at him now and you say he's not a dreamer, either, certainly not at this stage of the game after having made his living at golf the past 18 years, yet, in a sense, Arnold Palmer still is chasing rainbows.

The particular rainbow he's chasing is that all-elusive one more big one, that one more major title he'd like to add to the last one he won way back in 1964 when he swept to his fourth Masters.

In his mind, Arnold Palmer sees no earthly reason why he can't win the U.S. Open, which gets under way here Thursday. Why not?

He has won the Open before. He has played well on the Pebble Beach course before.

In his heart though, Arnold Palmer knows it's a hundred times tougher to keep the whole thing together for four straight days than it was 12 years ago when he won the Open at Cherry Hills in Denver.

He talked about his game and his age in the press tent after Tuesday's practice round, a good round, one in which two putts on the 18th hole would've given him a par 72.

They asked him about his reactions now at 42 and he answered honestly enough.

"My reactions and my thinking aren't the same as they were 20 years ago," he said. "You get a little kink in your back, you don't run as much."

Everybody laughed at that. Arnold Palmer laughed too, the same way he had a little earlier when he talked about the contact lenses he has been fiddling around with the past few weeks.

"I've been wearing contacts off and on," he said. "I don't know what I'm gonna do in this tournament. I may not wear anything."

Then suddenly realizing what he had said by noisy reaction which followed, Palmer quickly added "I mean glasses."

Arnold Palmer did not come here for the scenery. Nor did he come here merely to play. He came here to win, upstairs in his mind, anyway.

And he has been working hard trying to make that mental rainbow materialize. He has been playing 27 holes a day and at this stage of the game Arnold Palmer doesn't generally do that. But this is something special with him. He wants one more big one and he's trying every way he knows how to get it.

"I'm working on my game as hard as I can," he says. "I've tried about every approach. The whole thing right now is ... well, building my confidence. I'm trying to do that by playing the golf course. Some players think they can come to a major tournament like this one and perhaps play too many practice rounds or over-play. I've thrown that theory to the winds. I'm trying to find out as much about this golf course as I can. I expect to be in the rough and I expect to miss some greens. What I'm trying to do is find out the way back."

At the moment Arnold Palmer stands 28th on this year's money winning list.

He stands in between Hale Irwin and Bob Lunn with $41,31 won so far and that's certainly respectable.

But that still doesn't get him the rainbow.

When he finished his remarks in the press tent Tuesday I stopped him a moment and asked him how he honestly calculated his chances in this, his 19th U.S. Open.

He mulled the question over in his mind a moment and said: "My performance in major championships in recent years hasn't been good. I've been wearing it out here though, working as hard as I can, so I'd say my chances are a little better than they have been in past championships. The only way we'll know is after this thing gets going."

In his mind, Arnold Palmer probably was seeing that rainbow again.

He walked down the steps of the press tent and suddenly decided to have that hot dog and coke.

LPGA Witness Reports Cheat

ATLANTA (AP) — An official of the Ladies Professional Golf Association said in a federal court affidavit Wednesday that she saw golfer Jane Blalock cheat by moving her ball by hand at a Louisville, Ky., tournament.

The affidavit from LPGA treasurer Penny Zavichas was introduced as evidence in rebuttal of a $5 million suit against the organization by Miss Blalock.

The suit was filed earlier this month after the LPGA suspended the golfer for one year on grounds that she had violated the organization's code of ethics. She had earlier been fined $500, placed on probation and disqualified from the Blue Grass Invitational at Louisville.

She was accused of failing to penalize herself two strokes for moving her ball in the tournament.

The Zavichas affidavit, produced by LPGA lawyers at a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge Charles A. Moye Jr., said the LPGA official was atop a television tower observing Miss Blalock through binoculars when she saw the ball moved.

The official said the group's executive board later confronted the golfer with what was seen and "at no time did she deny this incident."

LPGA lawyer Hoke Smith of Atlanta produced another affidavit from golfer Louise Suggs in which she described once seeing Miss Blalock move a ball.

Smith argued that Miss Blalock as much as admitted guilt to the LPGA when, in a meeting held after she was accused of cheating at Louisville, she told the executive board, "I made my grave, now I guess I'll have to lie in it."

He said the future of the game is at stake in the suit. The game will lose all credibility with the public, he said, if golfers are allowed to cheat without punishment.

The 24-year-old Portsmouth, N.H., golfer, the LPGA's leading money winner last year and Rookie of the Year in 1969, appeared at the hearing with five lawyers.

Moye has already issued an order temporarily restraining the LPGA from enforcing its suspension while the suit is being heard. Wednesday's hearing was held for arguments on whether he should issue a temporary injunction and schedule the case for a jury trial.

The judge told lawyers for both sides during the two-hour hearing to file supplemental briefs with him by early next week. Meanwhile, Miss Blalock will continue to be protected by his temporary restraining order.

Eugene Partain of Atlanta, Miss Blalock's lawyer, denied his client had ever admitted guilt to the LPGA. Her position, he said, was that, "I deny having done it, but if they say I did it, in their microscopic examination, how could I refute it?"

He argued that Miss Blalock was denied due process when the LPGA held a series of meetings out of her presence to decide her fate.

Partain alleged that the action against the golfer was the result of a player conspiracy aimed at eliminating one of the game's superstars from competition.

The LPGA did not impose the suspension, he said, until after receiving a petition from 27 other players arguing that it protected the executive board, "I made my grave, now I guess I'll have to lie in it."

He said the future of the game is at stake in the suit.

McKenzie: Bruins Didn't Want Me

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — World Hockey Association as John McKenzie felt the Boston Bruins didn't want him, so the veteran winger jumped Wednesday from the National Hockey League to the new McKenzie described the decision to leave the Bruins and the NHL as the biggest of his life. He signed a three-year contract calling for six figures, reportedly $100,000, per year. The pact contains a money guarantee and a no-trade clause. The Bruins obtained WHA rights to McKenzie from Quebec for players to be determined later.

"If the Bruins had protected me in the draft, I would not have even considered talking with the World Hockey Association," McKenzie said. "Because they didn't, I thought it was time for me to make a move—before they moved me. I got security and I'm going to learn the coaching and business end of hockey."

The 34-year-old McKenzie said he would hire an assistant coach to handle the bench during games.

"I will be coach up until game time," said McKenzie, who spent 10 seasons in the NHL, the last seven with the Bruins. "The assistant coach will make line changes and make sure the boys are ready on the bench. We'll have a set pattern of line changes, power play units, penalty killers, matching up of lines."

McKenzie, known in the NHL as an aggressive, reckless type of player, said he hopes to mold a team in his own image. He already has Toronto's Bernie Parent in the nets, and plans to build his team down the middle. He's looking for a couple of good center men. The Blazers already have signed center Andre Lacroix from the NHL. Chicago Black Hawks.

The 5-foot-9 McKenzie has an NHL career record of 204 goals and 268 assists for 474 points. He has spent 917 minutes in the penalty box.

John Kay Now On His Own As A Solo Singer

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

John Kay, lead singer with Steppenwolf, is on his own as a solo singer, with a new LP, "Forgotten Songs and Unsung Heroes," and Steppenwolf is no more.

The LP, on Dunhill, is No. 67 on the best-selling album chart of June 10, and climbing. It's a back-to-the-roots album, with "Many a Mile" by Patrick Sky, "You Win Again" by Hank Williams, "Bold Marauder" by Richard Farina, "Walkin' Blues" by Robert Johnson, "I'm Movin' On" by Hank Snow and four songs by John Kay.

"My songs weren't right for Steppenwolf," Kay says. "I never bothered trying to convince them that we should record them. Now, on future albums, I'm not tied to anything. I've got old and new on this album. It will establish there is a variety of things possible from me."

"If I go on to the next album with whatever gets the best response from this one, I'm right back to the Steppenwolf thing."

That's precisely what I'm breaking away from. "Steppenwolf did 'Snowblind Friend' and 'Renegade' in an attempt to show the audience we could do that stuff as well. The critics thought we ought to pursue it further but the audience kept yelling for the same hard rock songs."

"We had the commitment of saying we had to have at least half an album hard rock. I don't want to be caught in a situation like that again. It would remove part of the enjoyment which comes from being free to sing what I like. I'm going to sing it because I like it."

Steppenwolf had a lot of gold. A just-released LP, "Rest in Peace," is the 10th. The gold ones include "Born To Be Wild," "Steppenwolf," "Live Steppenwolf," "Monster," "Steppenwolf Gold" and "Steppenwolf 7" and the single, "Magic Carpet Ride."

But money, fame and gold records aren't enough to keep a group together if personality conflicts develop or the inspiration runs out. In the case of Steppenwolf, Kay says, it was the latter.

"It's great to have money but if the initial reason for getting into the business disappears and the enjoyment of performing disappears, no money is going to replace that for you. I never had a room full of toys. But I've seen kids who did who were miserable."

"We had been together a long time, three of us since 1965 in Sparrow. It's a long time to be with the same people all the time and not run out of ideas. One guy builds on another guy's ideas, back and forth. You can exhaust that."

Kay can look with an analytical eye at Steppenwolf. He thinks they were a top-ranking hard rock group, with a group kind of sound, as the Rolling Stones have. In albums, Kay says, "All with the exception of 'Monster' and '7' were a little too spotty. 'At Your Birthday Party' all the guys wrote and the results were disastrous. You don't expect the first thing you write to be great. On 'Monster' we started a conglomerate writing kind of thing, until everybody got his kicks in there. It worked out much better."

"We went straight up to one plateau and leveled there. We got the same price per night because of the peak we were

"Leather has been part of my trip, too, since I joined Sparrow. If you get an album Columbia rereleased after Steppenwolf became popular, 'John Kay and Sparrow,' you'll see me in leather. I had been wearing leather longer than Jim Morrison had been around."

"Was I the image of the group? I was the leader and lead singer and wrote most of the material. I was the focal point. I represented the image. There was nothing wrong with the image, we were an anti-malistic looking kind of band and rarely backed down from any scrap. That wasn't all there was to us. 'Snowblind Friend' was completely opposite to 'Born To Be Wild.' But in the long run that image, mood-wise and musically, con-fined us."

Last fall, Kay says, "At the end of August we played our to spend September recording and October and November doing college concerts. At the end of August, I decided to have those canceled. I was going to get working on an album of my own, thinking by doing that I might get some of my personal things out of the way."

"When I got halfway through the album it became more and more apparent I was involved like I hadn't experienced since around the 'Monster' album. I knew when it was finished I'd rather pursue something which I would have to be solely responsible for rather than having to relate everything I do to all other people who are part of a group run on a democratic principle."

Kay, who says he couldn't ask the rest of Steppenwolf suddenly to become backup musicians for him, kept with him the two newest members of the group, George Biondo and Kent

Sullivan and Kent (from Bush). The other two members of Steppenwolf have got together with two musicians from Damian. He says, "Everybody was kind of happy. No one was left out in the cold."

DEAR CECILY: The original Sauerkraut Cake was in institutional size and was developed by Mrs. Geraldine Timms, lunchroom supervisor of Waller High School in Chicago. In 1962 all Chicago lunchroom people were asked to find new uses for kraut, then on the USDA Surplus Commodity List, and Mrs. Timms came up with the cake. Her recipe was tried in the test kitchens of the Chicago school system and became an instant success because of its moistness and good flavor. The homemade Sauerkraut Cake recipe, given below, was devised by a test kitchen in New York that works out recipes featuring kraut. Yes, I've tasted the cake and I doubt that anyone would guess kraut is an ingredient!—C. B.

SAUERKRAUT CAKE
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa
2-3rds cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup water
2-3rds cup rinsed, drained and chopped sauerkraut
Mocha Whipped Cream, see below
Grease and flour two 8-inch round cake pans.
On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cocoa.
In a large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time, and the vanilla. Stir in dry ingredients in 4 additions, alternately with water, until smooth each time; begin and end with dry ingredients. Stir in sauerkraut. Turn into prepared pans.
Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean—30 minutes. Place in wire rack to cool for 10 minutes. Turn out on wire racks to cool completely. Fill and frost with Mocha Whipped Cream. Store in the refrigerator.

MOCHA WHIPPED CREAM
Whip 1 1/2 cups heavy cream with 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon instant coffee, 2 teaspoons unsweetened cocoa and, if desired, 2 tablespoons rum until soft peaks form.

Tribespeople Don't Worry About Dentists

ANGORAM, New Guinea (AP) — Constant flooding of tribal land by the Sepik River probably is responsible for the extraordinary lack of dental decay among tribespeople here, says a World Health Organization expert.

Dr. David E. Barnes was chief of Australian New Guinea's Government Division of Dental Services until 1967 when he joined WHO.

While working in New Guinea, he took special interest in the lack of dental decay among 20,000 tribespeople living between Angoram and Ambolin on the swampy banks of the Sepik River.

Now, he's in the area with a research team to try to find out why the villagers never have to worry about dentists.

Barnes said that although all village people in the 19-village survey area had the same diet, there was a heavy contrast in the rate of dental decay depending where people lived.

People in villages on low river banks where flooding was regular had no dental decay he said. Other people in higher areas free of flooding had all the normal dental problems.

Soil analyses showed the best teeth were found in areas of flooding where silt-soil contained large traces of strontium, barium, calcium and phosphate. On the other hand, the higher the concentration of lead in the soil the higher the rate of dental decay.

"Now, we have to find out exactly what's causing all this and then find a way of using it to reduce dental decay right round the world, if we can," says Barnes.

Debut HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Hal Wallis signed Jame Callan Jones, a leading British television director, to make his feature movie debut as director of "A Bequest to the Nation" starring Glenda Jackson.

Patent Leather Shoes, Girdles Cause Problems

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the girdle manufacturers. Who can fasten the back supporters on a girdle and who likes to set on them? I move mine to the side for ease and comfort and find this also takes the strain off my hose so they wear longer.—FLOR-ENCE

DEAR POLLY — Patricia should rub petroleum jelly on her patent leather shoes that have lost their shine and then wipe off with an old rag and buff with a paper towel.—BARBARA

DEAR POLLY—This is for

Barbara whose patent leather shoes have lost their shine. Several times I have successfully used one of the new acrylic floor waxes. Just wipe over the shoes lightly and let dry for a few minutes. A second coat may be applied for a longer lasting shine. My shoes look better than when they were new and another good feature is that this wax can be used on any color of patent.—SHARON B.

Daley Delegate Action Labeled 'Dictatorial'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Rep. Bruce L. Douglas, D-Chicago, Tuesday called Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago dictatorial in handling the Democratic state delegation to the national nominating convention.

Douglas, in a letter written to Daley, criticized the action of the 160 Democratic elected delegates last week in splitting the 10 other delegate votes they were authorized into 20 delegate half votes.

"Did you think of asking Bob Mann (Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago) or myself to be included on the grounds that we received overwhelming support from the voters running as Democrats," Douglas asked in his letter.

"No," Douglas said. "You preferred people whom you knew you could dictate to, many of whom either lost in recent elections or who are down for other reasons and need father Daley to pat them on their heads, and to vote in Miami as you tell them to."

Referring to challenges to delegate selections, Douglas closed his letter by asking Daley "to allow for differences from within, so that of the so-called challenge will come decisions that will leave our party in a position to carry Illinois and to get a Democrat in the White House."

DEAR GIRLS—I first tried Sharon's pointer on a pair of navy crinkle patent shoes that were dull on the back from rubbing against the rubber floor mat in my car. The result was so great that I repeated the process on a matching purse and now both look like new. However always try an inconspicuous spot first.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I wonder if any of the readers know how to make a thimble holder by crocheting over a turkey or chicken wishbone.—FRANCES P.

DEAR POLLY—I needed a full-length mirror but did not know how to fasten one to a hollow door until I found those self-sticking 12-inch mirror tiles glued onto the closet door did the trick.—GISELA

DEAR GIRLS—I had a similar experience with a full length mirror that is very heavy. All around the back of the frame I placed small green stick-on squares, about an inch apart, pulled the paper backs off and then pressed the mirror firmly against the spot on the door that I had previously marked off with a pencil.—POLLY

A WINDOW FAN IN ATTIC DOES GOOD COOLING JOB

By MR. FIX
You would think that with the popularity of air conditioning, especially by way of one-room units, that the electric fan would be obsolete. It isn't.

If anything, fans come in a wider variety of models, in sizes that vary from tiny desk models to giant exhaust fans that will empty an entire house of its stale air in minutes.

No everyone wants air conditioning and not everyone needs it. In moderate climates a fan will provide all the relief you need from the heat.

Use portable fans to give quick comfort in a small area. For larger areas consider exhaust fans. There are small window mounted units or big ones that can be placed in the ceiling. Installed and used properly they can move cool air through an entire house.

The exhaust fan is used throughout the night when outside air is cooler and is used to replace the warm inside air. Once the house is cooled off in the morning, the fan is turned off and window shades and windows are kept closed on the sunny side of the house. The idea is slow up the heating process until night rolls around again and you can pump more cool air in again.

Most people can make do with window fans. The fan is placed in an open window. Sometimes the removal of a window unit is required.

Windows adjacent to the fan must be closed. Leaving them open will short circuit the air, moving it from the window next to the fan right through the fan without ever moving the air through the house.

Attic fans are bigger and more efficient. Install the fan high in a central location so that it draws air through the whole house.

There must be exhaust openings in the attic. These can be in the roof, gable ends or under the eaves. You may have to put in a special louver. Openings should be screened.

Whatever fan you use, keep doors and windows on the lower level of the house open during the night. This allows cool air to enter to replace the warm air that is being exhausted.

Italian tourism
NEW YORK (UPI) — Tourism, which made major gains in Italy in 1971, is expected to set a record in 1972, says "Tourist News from Italy." The publication points to new superhighways, improvements in rail and air transport facilities and more accommodations for motoring tourists as stimulating travel to Italy.

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's drive to put a conservative face on the Supreme Court is meeting with success. But the rightward drift in criminal law is not uninterrupted. Sometimes the Court seems to be going in two directions at once as it did Monday.

With resistance from only two of the Nixon nominees, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, the Court in one ruling actually expanded one of the landmark decisions of the liberal '60s: the right of all defendants, rich or poor, to have a lawyer defend them at trial.

The opinion came from the pen of William O. Douglas, an activist in applying the Bill of Rights long before Earl Warren even became chief justice.

Douglas said the Sixth Amendment guarantees a defendant a lawyer whenever he faces a possible jail sentence. Warren's conservative successor, Warren E. Burger, went along. So did Harry A. Blackmun, another Nixon nominee.

It wasn't until 1963 and the Gideon decision that defendants who were charged with "serious crimes" and could not afford a lawyer were guaranteed that one would be provided by the state.

In the nine years since, the Court and most of the states have confined this right to trials that could lead to jail terms of at least six months. But Douglas said the Sixth Amendment calls for a lawyer whenever a trial could result in "deprivation of a person's liberty."

Unwaved by the change this will require, he pointed out some 18,000 new lawyers are admitted to practice yearly—more than eight times the estmated number needed to represent all poor people charged with misdemeanors other than traffic offenses.

And most misdemeanors, he said, will not call for a lawyer since most do not lead to a jail sentence.

Within minutes of announcing this decision, however, the Court in another ruling carried forward the "law and order" theme of Nixon's 1968 presidential campaign. This was a 6-3 decision that gives police broader powers to conduct street searches without warrants.

Four years ago, the Court gingerly granted exceptions to the general Fourth Amendment rule that police cannot stop a citizen and search him unless the officer has "probable cause" to believe a crime has been committed. Now the Court has gone on to approve the search of a man sitting in a parked car on the basis of a tipster's word that he is carrying a loaded handgun in his waistband.

The search, in Bridgeport, Conn., in 1966, turned up some heroin and the suspect was tried and convicted on narcotics and gun charges.

Said Justice Rehnquist, the newest and probably most conservative Nixon appointee:

"The search of a man sitting in a parked car on the basis of a tipster's word that he is carrying a loaded handgun in his waistband."

Justice Thurgood Marshall, in dissent, noted that simply carrying a gun was not illegal in Connecticut. Therefore, he said, the officer had no more reason to suspect a crime than he would have if the frisked man, Robert Williams, were wearing a blue shirt.

Marshall said the decision "expands the concept of warfare" and "allows a crime to occur or a criminal to escape."

But the four Nixon appointees plus Potter Stewart and Byron R. White won out.

Last week, it was the four Nixon appointees plus Stewart combining to give police authority to place arrested suspects in lineups without a lawyer on hand.

The week before, it was the White holding the Court in criminal cases in state court.

On the same day, three Nixon appointees lined up with White and Stewart to limit the immunity from prosecution that is to be guaranteed witnesses who are forced to testify before grand juries.

The fourth appointee, Rehnquist, disqualified himself from voting.

50 Low Income Rental Units For Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — Construction is expected to begin about July 1 on the new housing units for low income families to be built here.

The sum of $1,365,462 has been allotted to Cass county for this type of housing, and the Cass county Housing Authority has announced the fifty modular home will be built on property located east of route 67 and west of Grand Avenue on the southwest side of Beardstown.

Bill Gardner has announced, as chairman of the Housing Authority, that 25 of the 50 units will be two bedroom, 8 will be four bedroom and the remaining will be one bedroom. The units will be two story type duplexes of townhouse design.

Dale Hager of Beardstown has been appointed as the new Executive Director, following the resignation of Harold Elliott of Ashland.

The grant most recently announced is solely for Beardstown and does not cover similar project plans for other parts of the county.

NORTHMINSTER TO HONOR MEN AND BOYS

Tuesday, June 6th the U.P.W. of Northminster held their Medical Missions meeting, opening with the reading, Our Purpose. President Mrs. Paul DeFrates read verses from Matthew, an article on Genesis, In Pain, and offered prayer. The regular business meeting was conducted.

Mrs. Harriett Pate reported on the work of the Mission Council of Jacksonville, consisting of eight churches. Representatives are Mrs. Pate, Paul DeFrates, Richard Mudd, Northminster and Mrs. Malcolm Stewart, a representative from the Presbyterian.

Wednesday, June 28 a dinner will be served to honor the men and boys of the church.

The following have delivered Doorbell Dinners from May 29 to June 9: Mrs. Harriett Pate, Mrs. Robert Henry, Mrs. Charles West, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Paul DeFrates, Valerie DeFrates and Mrs. Sterling Elliott.

Marceline Souza presented the Medical Missions program, Faith and the Surgeon, after which a special offering was taken. The reading of the prayer, the Stewards of God, concluded the meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served by Naomi Circles.

SESAME STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sesame Street" has gone behind the Iron Curtain for the first time.

The prize-winning television show for preschoolers, which is already being seen in nearly 50 English-speaking countries, is being viewed this year in experimental showings in Poland and Yugoslavia, where the titles are translated "Ullica Sezama," and "Sesam Ulica," respectively.

The national television networks of both countries superimpose occasional brief narration over the English sound track to set the stage for various scenes, but the shows are otherwise unchanged from the form in which they were first seen in the U.S.

The first bicycle made in the United States cost $13 and weighed 70 pounds.

Lois Freeman Re-Elected Mac Alum Director

Mrs. William E. (Lois) Freeman of Jacksonville has been elected to a three-year term on the MacMurray College Alumni Board of Directors. She is among six MacMurray alumni who were elected last month in balloting by the college's 9,000 member Alumni Association.

Mrs. Freeman, an intermediate grades teacher at Eisenhower Elementary School in Jacksonville, is a past president of the National MacMurray Alumnae Association, and is completing a one-year term on the alumni board. She has served as chairman of the Alumni Giving Committee of the board since 1970.

A member of the Class of 1949 who graduated from MacMurray in 1960, Mrs. Freeman earned the masters degree in education from the University of Illinois.

She is a member of the board of Grace United Methodist church, vice president of the Jacksonville Chapter of AAUW, and a former executive director of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council.

The 18-member MacMurray Alumni Board administers all projects and special events conducted by the Alumni Association. Major functions include directing alumni participation in MacMurray's academic enrichment, admissions, development, student affairs, and long-range planning programs.

Cass Group In South Dakota Flood Area

BEARDSTOWN — A group of 15 Beardstown Methodists, mostly youngsters and the Rev. William G. Browning, are getting first hand impressions of the tragic flood in the Black Hills area.

The children and their leaders left here last week in cars and for a time there was apprehension here that they might have arrived in the disaster area just about the time it occurred.

Reports from the Rev. Mr. Browning reassured loved ones here, however, and indicated that much of the tragic results of the flood in the Rapid City area was evident to the travelers.

The group arrived just a few hours after the worst of the flood struck.

Plane Crash Widows Increase Claims Of Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — The widows of 10 victims of a crash of a Chicago and Southern Airlines plane at Peoria eight months ago increased their claims by $10 million in an amended suit filed in Circuit Court Wednesday.

Three new defendants also were added to their damage suit which now seeks a total of $21 million.

The additions are the Peoria Municipal Airport Authority, the Central Light Co. and Commonwealth Edison Co. The other defendants in the original $11 million suit included the now-defunct airlines, the aircraft manufacturer and a California company which modified the twin-engine Beechcraft.

The plane crashed Oct. 21 when it struck utility lines in foggy weather conditions while approaching the Peoria airport. All 16 persons aboard were killed.

The amended suit charged that the airport instrument landing system was not in operation the day of the crash and that several runways were closed because of construction work. It maintained the airport should have shut down until construction was completed and should have provided interim instrument landing approach equipment.

The suit charged the utility companies with negligence in maintaining power lines on an approach to a commercial airport and with violation of federal aviation regulations by not installing warning equipment to alert pilots.

Dr. Hartman On Regional HASP Committee

Dr. Robert R. Hartman, 1040 West College avenue, has been appointed to the regional committee of the Hospital Admissions and Surveillance Program (HASP) in Region 3A, according to Dr. Joseph R. O'Donnell, president of the Illinois Foundation for Medical Care.

A program of IFMC, HASP certifies all Medicaid hospital admissions for length of stay throughout the state. The regional HASP committee establishes all regulations and procedures for the program according to guidelines established by the State HASP committee. The committee is responsible for all medical decisions within the area and also serves as advisor to the regional administrator.

Counties included in Region 3A are: Mason, Logan, Cass, Schuyler, Brown, Menard, Pike, Morgan, Scott, Sangamon, Christian, Calhoun, Greene, Macoupin, Montgomery, Jersey and Adams.

Dr. Hartman, an obstetrician and gynecologist, is past-president of the attending staff of Passavant Memorial Area Hospital, Jacksonville, and the Illinois Obstetrical and Gynecological Society.

A 1940 graduate of Northwestern University Medical School, Dr. Hartman is a member of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the International College of Surgeons, the American Medical Association, the Illinois State Medical Society and is a past-president of the Morgan-Scott County Medical Society.

Special Ed Teacher Resigns At New Berlin

NEW BERLIN — Members of the board of education for New Berlin Unit District 16 met June 12th. At that time an instructor for instrumental music was hired and a resignation from the special education teacher received.

Members of the board viewed a demonstration of a new communication system but no action was taken for purchase of same. Joseph A. Kohlman was interviewed for the music instruction vacancy and hired for a six week period of summer work.

A letter was read from Virgil J. Davis, Office of Public Instruction, stating the driver education program at New Berlin High School meets full requirements and is approved.

Mrs. Phyllis Fuch will be the secretary at the high school and unit office during the summer.

The special education teacher, Mrs. Sara B. Wilcox, submitted her resignation giving personal and family obligations reason and this was reluctantly accepted.

Contracts for the coming school year were approved for bread and bread products to Interstate Brands Corp. at Springfield; milk, Beatrice Foods and Meadow Gold Dairy; Springfield; gasoline and fuel oil, Farm Supply Services, Inc. out of Springfield.

Walker Stops At Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — His greying hair in disarray after a jeep-ride from adjoining counties, a bronzed shirt sleeved Dan Walker, the Democratic candidate for governor, visited here briefly Tuesday.

Riding in a red jeep with his two sons and a driver, the man who beat Paul Simon in the primary arrived about noon to shake hands with local party bigwigs in front of the local radio and newspaper offices.

Bill Neff and Mrs. Joanne Clarke, chairmen of the Cass county central committees, staff men from the news media and a few others were on hand. Mr. Walker remained out of doors for about 15 minutes, talked amiably with those around him, then hopped into the jeep to continue his campaign.

Frank H. Trussell, considered to be Mr. Democrat in these parts, chatted with Walker and mentally added the Walker name to a long list of gubernatorial candidates he has welcomed through a half century of active political interest and endeavor. Trussell formerly was Central Committeeman chairman here, and his record in the party goes beyond a half century.

Speed Decision On Delegates

CHICAGO (AP) — The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed Wednesday to expedite handling of a legal battle over qualifications of 59 Illinois delegates to the Democratic National Convention elected with uncommitted status in the March primary.

The court ordered attorneys involved to file by July 8 written arguments on an appeal of an injunction issued Friday by Judge Frank J. McGarr of U.S. District Court. The convention will open July 10 in Miami Beach.

The injunction stopped Alderman Paul T. Wigoda of Chicago from proceeding with his suit in Circuit Court. Wigoda asked that 10 independent Democrats be stopped from challenging eligibility of his group to serve as delegates.

The independents claim that the Illinois delegation "grossly under-represents" blacks, Latins, women and young persons. Hearings on the challenge were held the last two weeks by Cecil F. Poole, a Democratic National Convention hearing officer. He will submit a report on the eligibility of the uncommitted delegates to the convention credentials committee.

Alpha Porter Dies Wednesday At 67 Years

Alpha Porter, 1412 South West St., died at 3:45 a.m. Wednesday at Norris hospital where he had been a patient for the past week. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Porter was born July 1, 1905 in Scott county, son of John and Mary Elizabeth Funk Porter. He married the former Lillian Hope at Bluffs on Dec. 19, 1928. She preceded in death. Three sons survive, Don W. of Abilene, Texas, Randall J. of Clovis, New Mexico and Burton of Jacksonville. There are four grandchildren.

One sister, Mrs. Elia Hubbert of Winchester, also survives. One sister preceded in death. The deceased was a member of the Winchester Masonic Lodge and recently retired from Sauer Agricultural Services in Winchester.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Woodcock Funeral Home with burial to be in Winchester City cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

Lyle Welty Of Timewell Dies Wednesday

MT. STERLING — Lyle Welty, 32, of rural Timewell was dead on arrival at Culbertson hospital at Rushville Wednesday.

Welty was working at the West Illinois Stone Quarry, 7 miles south of Mt. Sterling, when he was pulled into a conveyor which he was attempting to clean. Assistant coroner Mrs. Norma Hufnagel pronounced him dead at the hospital Wednesday afternoon. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Set Miller Rites At Chandlerville

CHANDLERVILLE — Funeral services for Lloyd Miller of rural route Chandlerville, who died late Tuesday in a farm accident, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Chandlerville Baptist church. Burial will be in the Chandlerville cemetery.

Friends may call at the Lintner-Buchanan Funeral Home here Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mr. Miller was born Dec. 13, 1908 at Chandlerville, son of Abraham and Rachel Masten Miller. He married the former Alice Marie Cooper on March 11, 1933 in Chandlerville.

Survivors include his wife, Alice, his mother, Mrs. Rachel Miller of Chandlerville, one brother, Raymond of Lisle, and two sisters, Dorothy Toland and Mrs. Velma Connell, both of rural Chandlerville.

Several nieces and nephews also survive.

The deceased was a member of the Chandlerville Baptist church.

PINOCHLE CLUB AT CHANDLERVILLE

CHANDLERVILLE — Mrs. Effie Wiseman entertained members of her Pinochle club at her home here June 12th. Prizes were won by Jan Preston, Gladys Alderman, Lella Seaver and Sarah Hughtell. Others playing were Eva Stokes and Lib Perry, all from Jacksonville.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of play.

Cater And Fisk Guide Red Sox Past Royals 11-3

BOSTON (AP) — Danny Cater and Carlton Fisk walloped home runs, leading a 13-hit Boston Red Sox attack that buried the Kansas City Royals 11-3 Wednesday night.

The Red Sox, beating the Royals at home for the first time in 10 games, struck for four runs in the first inning and built their lead to 8-0 with a four-run fourth capped by Cater's three-run blast.

After Rico Petrocelli's run-scoring single in the fourth made it 9-0, Boston tallied two more in the seventh on Fisk's two-run blast.

John Curtis, sailing along with a three-hit shutout going into the eighth, was touched for three Kansas City runs when Richie Scheinblum hit a leadoff home run and Jerry May's delivered a two-run shot just moments later.

Curtis picked up his third victory in four decisions with a seven-hitter, outlasting four Kansas City pitchers. Kan City 000 030-3 7 2 Boston 440 100 20X-11 13 0

DRIVER RETURNED TO SPRINGFIELD

City police apprehended 26-year-old Peter D. Gardner, 834 S. Main, after he attempted to hide from officers. The incident took place at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Gardner was taken to police headquarters and charged with having no driver's license. A later check revealed that the auto he was driving was reported as stolen from West Side Motors in Springfield.

He was officially charged with auto theft by Springfield authorities and returned there about noon.

Police said Gardner took a bus to Springfield Tuesday but reportedly had no way to return to Jacksonville late Tuesday evening.

VERY SICK? — A Hong Kong newspaper said Wednesday China's leadership held an urgent meeting last week to decide who will rule China after Chairman Mao Tse-tung, said to be "very sick and possibly dying." The conservative English language South China Morning Post said in a front-page article that Hong Kong's Communist leaders have been told by Chinese authorities to "prepare for a serious statement about the health of Chairman Mao." Mao is 78. (UPI Photo)

McDowell And Giants Contain Pittsburgh 3-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sam McDowell, pitching in his hometown for the first time in his career, stymied Pittsburgh on five singles as the San Francisco Giants beat the Pirates 3-1 Wednesday night.

McDowell, a Pittsburgh native who spent his major league career in the American League before coming to San Francisco in a trade this year, surrendered the sole Pirate run in the fourth on a hit, an error and a run-scoring single by Manny Sanguillen.

The Giants had earlier staked McDowell, 7-4, to a pair of third-inning runs off loser Dock Ellis, 5-3.

Singles by Tito Fuentes, Bobby Bonds and Chris Speier made it 1-0. Later in the inning Ellis caught Bonds off third with a toss to Jose Pagan, but Pagan threw high to the plate for an error and the speedy Bonds scored.

San Francisco added another run off Ellis in the seventh on two singles and a sacrifice fly by Fuentes.

Pittsburgh 002 000 100-3 6 2 McDowell and Rader; Ellis, R. Hernandez (8) and Sanguillen. W—McDowell, 7-4. L—Ellis, 5-3.

"I have overactive sweat glands," Sen. Charles Chew, D-Chicago, complained Tuesday as he challenged the tradition. Chew also noted this year's Senate rules do not require the membership to wear coats and ties.

That sent the Senate Rules Committee into a quick huddle and President pro tem Cecil Partee, D - Chicago, emerged with a proposed rule requiring proper attire on the floor, including coats and ties.

"I feel oppressed by having to wear a coat," Sen. John Knappell, D - Petersburg, said. "Efficiency should be put above appearance."

Knappell, who recently underwent open-heart surgery, asked whether he would be allowed to shuck his coat if he produced a doctor's certificate saying he should do so.

Pass New Plan For Filling Judgeships

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A new plan for filling politically troublesome vacancies in 42 judgeships around Illinois has been approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

Sponsored by Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, the measure cleared the House 110-35 Tuesday after proponents hailed it as a way to get judge candidates on the November ballot even though they were not nominated in March.

Under the plan, the candidates would be selected by political party committees.

Rep. Brian Duff, R-Wilmotte, speaking for opponents of the plan, called it a "copout on our responsibilities" and added it would "give political parties a job for the summer."

A bill advocated by the administration of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie to "take the judges out of politics" was beaten down by the House earlier 45-91. Sponsored by Rep. George Burditt, R-LaGrange, it called for a special "nonpartisan" nominating primary.

Foes of the bill said it would be too expensive—$2.5 to $3 million statewide this year—and added that elections billed as nonpolitical are usually a sham.

"What is a nonpartisan election?" Rep. Richard Hart, D-Benton, asked.

The new Illinois Constitution requires the legislature to furnish a method of filling judicial vacancies. But it failed to do so before the primary, leaving the spots open.

Among them are five appellate vacancies in Cook County, three of which were created by the Legislature last year, and two appellate vacancies downstate.

There are 14 circuit vacancies in the Chicago area and 21 downstate.

HANNIBAL MAN CHARGED TUESDAY IN ABDUCTION

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI)—Harry F. Tettamble waived a preliminary hearing Tuesday in magistrate Court on a charge of first-degree burglary in connection with the abduction of Connie Kitson, 20.

Tettamble, 31, was bound over to the Hannibal Court of Common Pleas and held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Marion County Prosecutor Ron McKenzie said the charge was based on statutes which describe first-degree burglary as armed breaking and entering with an attempt to commit a felony.

Tettamble allegedly broke into the home of Elliot R. Hatten, Mrs. Kitson's father, and struck her with a pistol Sunday.

He was arrested Monday in Pleasant Hill, Ill., after Mrs. Kitson was abducted and returned to her home in Hannibal. She furnished authorities a description of the car in which she was abducted.

The suspect was returned to Hannibal Monday after he waived extradition from Illinois.

McKenzie said it was uncertain whether kidnapping charges would be filed.

Hold Migrant Workers In Camp Six Charged With Violating Antislavery Amendment

RUSKIN, Fla. (AP) — Six migrants have been accused of violating the Constitution's antislavery provision by beating migrant tomato pickers and keeping them against their will in an abandoned, tumbledown schoolhouse, authorities said.

The men, all from Forest City, Ark., were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Tampa on charges of conspiracy and involuntary servitude.

"Over acts in the conspiracy included forcibly returning migrant workers to the camp, preventing and also beating several workers who attempted to leave the camp," said the FBI special agent in charge at Tampa, J. F. Santolana Jr.

Santolana identified the men as Walter Taylor Jr., 31; his brother, A. J. Taylor, 26; Edward Earle Hinton, 26; David Rucker, 25; Frank James, whose age was unavailable, and Ernest Morgan, 23.

All but Morgan were taken from the old Sun City schoolhouse near here to the Hillsborough County jail in Tampa about 20 miles north of this small agricultural town. Morgan, a patient in a Bradenton hospital, is to be turned over to U. S. marshals upon his release, the FBI said.

PRODUCTION HALTED AT ANHEUSER-BUSCH

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Production at the big Anheuser-Busch brewery was halted early Wednesday after production workers left the job in a union dispute.

A company spokesman said all operations except the power plant shut down at midnight. Anheuser-Busch produces Budweiser, Michelob and Busch beers. It is one of the largest breweries in the nation.

The walkout began Tuesday night, despite a federal judge's temporary restraining order against a strike threatened by Local 6 of the Brewers and Malters Union.

A hearing on the order is scheduled Friday in U.S. District before Judge James Meredith.

Despite an annual harvest of 20 to 40 million birds, the basic breeding flock of doves in America has increased over the past two decades.

To Cope With Rapid Decompression

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Last year the U.S. Air Force spent more than $1 million sending 15,000 pilots and flight crew members through pressure chambers to simulate rapid decompression, the emergency that struck an American Airlines DC10 on Monday.

But America's major airlines, which carried 152 million passengers in the United States last year, don't require this emergency training for their pilots and stewardesses, a poll indicated Tuesday. Federal Aviation Administration regulations don't require it.

So only pilots with military experience and a handful of stewardesses know what it feels like when the unexpected bang comes, followed by a whoosh of air, a cold mist fogging the cabin, and objects whistling about.

The incident Monday night raises anew old questions about whether such training should be mandatory for airline crews.

The American Airlines spokesmen said Tuesday the DC10 experienced sudden decompression when a hatch came open over Ontario. The crew made an emergency landing at Detroit minutes later without a rudder or left braking system, with the rear engine of the three-engine plane disabled and elevation controls partially lost.

Of the 67 persons aboard, nine were injured slightly while sliding down emergency escape chutes after landing and two stewardesses were hurt slightly when a floor collapsed.

Airline crew training officials questioned Tuesday included representatives for Pan American, United, Trans World, Continental and American. All said pressure chamber training isn't deemed necessary because rapid decompression occurs so infrequently. Training now in use is sufficient, they said.

However the Air Force requires every pilot and crew member and even touring congressmen and other civilians to take its physiological training course and renew it every three years before they can fly in most high altitude aircraft.

The course consists of one day of classroom work followed by half a day in the pressure chamber. Students learn to use oxygen masks, are taken up to a simulated altitude of 43,000 feet achieved by pumping air from the chamber. They take their masks off briefly, experiencing oxygen deficiency, which can lead to unconsciousness.

Then with the chamber at 22,000 feet, a valve is opened and the altitude suddenly drops to 8,000 feet. It's a startling experience, even though the student knows it's coming.

Altitude chamber training is available to airline pilots and stewardesses for $5 through a cooperative program between the FAA and the armed forces. But FAA officials who head the program in Oklahoma City said very few stewardesses have participated. No figure on the number of pilots was available.

Pressurized aircraft cabins became necessary with the advent of jet airplanes which operate at extremely high altitudes.

Pumps force air into the cabin constantly, simulating a much lower altitude, usually 8,000 feet, at which oxygen masks aren't needed.

But if a hatch blows open or the pressure hull otherwise is opened, rapid decompression can result.

American's passengers were apparently in little danger Monday night because the airplane had just left Detroit and was at 12,000 feet where adequate oxygen is available.

However the craft's normal operating altitude is 35,000 to 38,000 feet and if a plane suddenly was depressurized at that altitude, anyone who didn't immediately begin breathing oxygen from the mask that would drop in front of him would pass out in less than a minute.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In much of the business community today there is a defensive feeling, a fear of the future, a distrust of the political climate, a suspicion that events might conspire against it.

It is difficult to say how pervasive this attitude is but it appears and reappears in the speeches and testimony and other public statements of many chief executives of the largest and most powerful corporations.

Whether the attitude is justified by the facts can, perhaps, be answered only through a thorough study.

To illustrate from a little noted but very revealing speech this week:

Stewart S. Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., second largest in an industry where profits have lagged, is greatly concerned—somewhat bitter also, it would seem by his remarks—about political attacks on business.

Truthfulness, he told the Jacksonville, Fla., Rotary, is taking "an awful beating" from some political candidates. They are, he said, throwing around careless rhetoric intended to discredit the business community.

Cort was especially incensed about accusations that business fails to pay its fair share of taxes, claiming that in the 10 years through 1971 Bethlehem paid more than $1.7 billion, or more than its total net income.

"So please think twice before swallowing all this baloney about large corporations not carrying their fair share of the tax burdens," he said. The explanation, he said, is that "the temptation is irresistible" to attack business.

Cort expanded his remarks to talk about a general climate of "cynicism and mistrust" fostered by "an army of muckrakers" who, he implied, were largely responsible for—as revealed in an unnamed survey—46 per cent of Americans thinking that big business is dangerous to our way of life.

The effect if not the purpose of antibusiness propaganda and calls for extreme tax reform, he suggested, is to destroy individual incentive, confiscate savings and endanger individual freedom.

Cort insisted he wasn't against change. Continual and gradual changes in society are needed, he said, "and needed badly." There is, he said, "a lot of inequity in our land: there's a lot of poverty; there's a lot of suffering that must be remedied."

But, he added, "we must find a way to do it that doesn't stop our economy in its tracks—a way that doesn't wipe out the individual liberties that have made us a proud country, with every right to be proud."

He called for groups such as the Rotary to organize programs "to encourage responsible, honest, and truthful campaigning. Mobilize 'truth squads' perhaps."

Sudden Windfalls Pose Tax Problems

By CARLTON SMITH
A tax accountant named Mike Cunningham recently met with four people who were groaning, holding their heads and moaning, "Oh, what do I do now?" Real problems, they had.

Three of them had just won $50,000 (each) in the Massachusetts state lottery. The fourth, poor guy, had this really terrible problem. He was an assembly line worker in an auto plant who'd just won a million—$50,000 a year for the next 20 years.

You may find it difficult to sympathize with these four victims of ill fortune, and even wish some of the same for yourself. But as the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants points out, the tax problems that member Mike Cunningham was dealing with are magnified examples of what happens to anyone when his income takes a substantial jump during a given tax year.

It shows up in the family tax return, as one example, when a wife goes back to work after the children are in school, and taxable income suddenly increases 50 to 100 per cent.

On a different scale, the problems of the lottery winners are those of any taxpayer faced with a suddenly large bit by Uncle, which usually comes as a surprise and a shock, unprepared for. And the remedies are very much the same as those suggested to the Massachusetts winners.

Cunningham is a member of a volunteer advisory group, set up at the request of lottery officials, to help these unfortunates with the tax, legal and investment problems they acquire when thousands of dollars are dumped into their unsuspecting laps.

SOYBEAN, CORN PRICES DECLINE

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather liquidation again hit commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

Soybeans fell 2½ cents a bushel, corn eased 1 cent and oats ½ cent. Soybean oil declined 20 points and meal was down around 10 cents a ton.

Iced broilers were little changed in very slow trade. Rain fell again overnight in sections of the Midwest, and this tended to influence early sellers in the major pits.

Corn, oats and soybeans, all planted in the last couple of months, have benefited greatly from the precipitation, trade sources reported. There appeared to be little to influence buyers at this time.

Wheat futures showed some independent strength. The buying in wheat was influenced by some improvement in exports. After about an hour, soybeans were ½ to 1½ cents a bushel lower, July 3.48½; wheat was ¼ to ½ higher, July 1.43½; corn was ¼ to 1 cent lower, July 1.22½ and oats were ½ to ¾ lower, July 68½ cents.

About noon, soybeans were 1 to 1½ cents a bushel lower, July 3.48½; wheat was ½ to ¾ higher, July 1.43½; corn was ¼ to 1½ cents lower, July 1.21½ and oats were ½ lower, July 68½ cents.

The Northside Juniors and Seniors 4-H Clubs met together for the annual club tour Sunday afternoon, July 11th. Members' projects toured were those by Kent and Terry Jones; David Patterson, Brian and Mike Roegge; Teresa and Larry Maxwell and Dennis Hammer.

A talk, Burns, was given by Brian Roegge. Refreshments of soda pop and homemade ice cream were served by the Roegge family.

The Ebenezer Girls 4-H Club met June 6th at North School cafeteria and held judging day. Peggy Alexander was the presiding officer. Pledges to the 4-H and American flags were led by Cathy Kennedy and Tanya Chapman. Mary Nergenah, assistant secretary, called roll and read the minutes.

Renee Newbery reported on 4-H Day Camp May 27th. Members of the club volunteered to give the club radio program August 12th and work in the 4-H Federation stand at the Morgan County Fair.

The program was presented by club members: demonstration Making a Dip by Peggy Alexander; demonstration Cinnamon Rolls by Mary Nergenah.

Talk, Shrinking and Straightening Cotton Cloth, by Vickie Stauffer; demonstration, Fastening Threads Correctly, by Diane Darush.

Demonstration, Knitting Equipment, by Chris Brune; talk, Need for Cleanliness When Handling Food, by Gerry Day; demonstration, Shaping Rolls by Kerri Marshall and demonstration, Designs on Candles by Tanya and Trisha Chapman.

The club members judged the many projects of members. A sack lunch was enjoyed at noon with drink being furnished by Mary Nergenah and Peggy Alexander. Following this, activity talks on Health, Safety, Electricity, People-To-People, Music, Careers, and Citizenship were given by all members.

NEW YORK (AP) — After a week of declines and two days of indecision, the stock market found a new direction Wednesday—upward. The move was accompanied by a higher volume of trading.

Prices rose in a fairly broad range, with the professionals—including the institutional investors—participating more than the general public. Some of the glamor issues helped lead the parade.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 946.79, up 8.50. Earlier it had been ahead nearly 10 points.

Brokers said a major news item buoying the market was a report from Paris that France and the Soviet Union might try the role of peacemakers in Indochina and the Middle East.

They also noted the psychological effects of an improvement in the bond market and a favorable Department of Commerce report on business inventories in April.

The Big Board volume was 18.32 million shares, compared with 15.72 million Tuesday and 13.39 million Monday.

The New York Stock Exchange index closed ahead .45 to 60.11.
On the Big Board, motors were ahead, with sales reported higher. Several of the airline stocks were down, on the prospect that air traffic did not increase as much as expected in May.

Issues in the fields of electronics, aircraft, metals, and chemicals were ahead, as were most of the steel and oil stocks.

The day's most-active issue was Wheelabrator-Frye, up ½ to 10 to 626,400 shares, including several large blocks.
Block trades of 10,000 shares or more numbered 128, compared with a revised total of 147 for Tuesday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 2.6 to 328.6.
On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index pulled ahead .11 to 27.58.

In Over-the-Counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index was up .87 to 131.45.
Turnover at the American Stock Exchange was 4.76 million shares, compared with 3.35 million Tuesday. There were 551 advances and 386 declines among the 1,211 issues traded.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key measure of the nation's balance-of-payments deficit, designed to show the long-term dollar drain, worsened in the first three months of the year, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The deficit on the so-called "current account and long-term capital" basis was $3.2 billion on a seasonally adjusted basis compared with $1.8 billion recorded in the last three months of 1971.

Previous measures of the balance-of-payments deficit in the first quarter showed improvement, but the balance on current accounts is designed to look at the longer-range, underlying picture by stripping away the impact of dollars invested overseas in short-term securities.

The measure released by the department today is designed to show the impact of trade and capital invested for longer terms.
It showed that it was a swing of about $1 billion in the amount of long-term capital invested overseas when compared with that invested in the United States.

In addition, the trade deficit worsened sharply, adding another $610 million to the deficit when compared with the previous quarter.

The Nixon administration economists watch the balance on current and long-term capital closely, because it reflects more on the competitiveness of American industry than any other measure.

Fantasy Hat Creations Shown

NEW YORK (AP) — To top off the "delightful sanity" of fall fashions, hat designers have brought back plaids, sweater knit caps and wispy veil trimming.

"It's ridiculous to say hats haven't changed," was the word at the Millinery Institute of America fall trends showing Tuesday.

To prove the point, models showed off fantasy creations from days past—abundant ostrich plumes and heavy looking straws, piled with goodies.

"The days of the mad, crazy millinery designer are gone forever. Every hat is intimately related to the clothes a woman will wear," said the moderator.

This year, there are the popular plaid roll brim hats for casual dress—headhugging cloches, good with the larger dolman silhouette—bright colors to hold their own with paintbox hues for fall—crocheted tams to top off the sweater look.

The "little hats" turn up in leather, fur or felt. Winter Fashions offers the white cloche with leather trim for $50. Many designers suggest this look as right with the more generous look of wide-sleeved coats. They're also good on crowded buses.

Man-tailored hats go well with the classic sportswear that's been strong and continues into fall. Designer Irene likes a black and red plaid swag hat with matching stole for $75. There's also the port pie, the sailor and the snappin, to coordinate with pants outfits.

The trend to bright colors is backed up by hats in screaming red or citrus yellow, and a few tricolor combinations.

Grand Jury Returns Indictments For Ten

A new Morgan county grand jury was convened before Judge Gordon Seator Wednesday morning to hear evidence presented by State's Attorney Richard Norris against ten defendants involving 19 separate counts.

Members of the grand jury were dismissed shortly before 3 p.m. after a separate committee had been appointed to visit and inspect the county jail. Judge Seator asked that the committee submit a written report of their findings to the clerk of the court and that they would be relieved of further duties until notification at a future date.

Cases Considered

Two cases involving the charge of unlawful possession of cannabis marijuana were voted true bills and indictments issued charging Jerry Ray Piliand, 19, of Springfield and William Lloyd Craddock, 24, of 825 North Main.

Both young men were apprehended by city police May 3 near the MacMurray campus and both already received preliminary hearings on the charges.

Cletus "Buddy" Davidson, 20, and Larry Archer, 21, were indicted on charges of theft of two motorcycles.

The two motorcycles were reportedly stolen from the 400 block of North Pine Street last January 11 and recovered a day or two later from an abandoned farm house near Franklin. Davidson and a companion, Doris Vannier, 19, of Bluffs were arrested in Mississippi and Miss Vannier was returned to Jacksonville by sheriff's deputies. Davidson was taken into custody by the FBI on charges of being AWOL from the Army. Miss Vannier was not indicted on the theft charges but is expected to be charged with a lesser offense. Archer has not yet been taken into custody but is believed to be in Florida. City detectives said Archer is also AWOL from the Army in California.

Jack Pilkington, 28, of Waverly, and a younger brother Karl Pilkington, 21, whose address is unknown, were both indicted on five counts of forgery each.

Jack Pilkington has received a preliminary hearing and is free on bond. Karl Pilkington is wanted on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. He was picked up for investigation in Colorado using the name of his brother and later released. His fingerprints were sent to the FBI in Washington, D.C., by the Colorado authorities after his release and determined that he used his brother's name.

The two men are charged with forging the signatures on checks written in December 1971 and January of this year at the Darwin Company.

Janice K. Sanchez, 32, of Wood River, and Edward Eugene Carter, 28, believed to reside in the Wood River area, were both charged with forgery.

They are charged in connection with passing a stolen American Express money order at Long's Pharmacy last Feb. 18. Mrs. Sanchez has appeared for a preliminary hearing and is free under bond pending her next court appearance. Carter has not been taken into custody.

Donald F. Butler, 32, formerly of Jacksonville and now reported to be living in Peoria, was indicted on a charge of aggravated battery in connection with an incident at Walnut Terrace May 2.

Ricardo C. Valjean, age and address unknown, was indicted on two counts of forgery. He is charged with writing checks in the amount of $74.38 each at Carl Dobson's Lounge, Andy's Tavern and Fox's Lounge last March 6. He used the name of Thomas J. Kenezovich on each of the checks according to city detectives.

Valjean's whereabouts are unknown to authorities.

At the close of court Wednesday afternoon, Judge Seator accepted pleas of guilty from two juveniles, 13 and 16, on curfew violations and assessed fines of $10 and $15 court costs each. Both were involved in riding in a car reported stolen May 30.

The cost of the program was $35 million under estimates made last year," Vasconcelles said. "Yet without the Price Commission limit on physicians' fees, it would have been necessary to increase the premium to at least $6 a month."

The medical insurance part of Medicare paid $2 billion in benefits on behalf of 94 million people in fiscal 1971. Almost everyone 65 and over is enrolled—about 20 million people, according to Vasconcelles.

The medical insurance supplements Medicare hospital insurance, which is funded by social security contributions and helps pay for hospital bills and certain follow-up care of people 65 and over.

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program. The premium rate is adjusted to cover the estimated medical expenses of Medicare patients during the 12 months beginning July 1.

AUBURN, Ill.—Officers examine the remains of a burned-out truck Wednesday after it hit the locomotive of a Gulf, Mobile & Ohio passenger train at an intersection north of Auburn. Driver of the vehicle was reported in critical condition with burns, but no other injuries were reported. The train did not leave the tracks. The driver's name was not immediately available.

Scott Legion Selects Officers For Coming Year

By Mrs. James Cox (Winchester Correspondent) (Telephone 742-3817 or 742-5566)

WINCHESTER—Julian Wells Post No. 442 of the American Legion met recently with a fish and chicken supper preceding the meeting.

Commander, Richard George, conducted the business session with Albert Herring presenting the treasurer's report.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: Commander, Dick Hoots; 1st vice, Paul Roberts; 2nd vice, John Grey; adjutant, Eddie Kirkpatrick; treasurer, Albert Herring; Sgt. at Arms, Richard George; and Chaplain, Eddie Evans.

The annual steak fry will be July 19 at the Legion Hall. The committee in charge includes Bill Jefferson, Wilbur Moore, Ronald Thomas, John Grey and Reggie McGuire.

Nursing Center The Sunday morning Sunday School Class was led by Mrs. Jesse Saffer of the First Christian church.

Monday morning the resident council and staff department heads held their June meeting. The main item discussed was the Family Night Picnic to be held June 20. A hamburger fry was decided on with the staff, residents and families to be on the patio and lawn with horseshoes, badminton, and croquet for enjoyment.

The Naples WSCS hosted the June Birthday Party with Nettie Knowles, Tracy Jones and Elsie Thomas being honored. Cupcakes, ice cream and punch were served with a special decorated cake for the birthday table. Gifts of remembrance were given to the honorees.

Rev. Maner Aden of the First Baptist Church held the Thursday church service. Mrs. Wilda Graham accompanied the hymn sing. Special music was provided by Lisa Aden and Kathy Suttles.

The Lutheran Bible School students donated banners they had made. Judi McLaughlin furnished piano music for the residents.

Miss Mildred French donated 2 humming bird feeders to the Center. New residents this week are Lois Brown of Manchester, Mabel Pyle and Emma Waters of Bluffs, William Howland of Pittsfield and Chester Graves of Winchester.

Little League Action In the 9 and 10 year old division, the Winchester National Bank, managed by Jim Moore, was defeated 11 to 5 by the Alesy Refractories team, managed by Norm Frossard.

In the 11 and 12 division, First State Bank, managed by Hugh McIntire, won a 6 to 1 victory over Pepsi Cola Company, managed by John Hart.

CAR DAMAGED LATE TUESDAY Tonya Penton, 713 South Main, and two passengers escaped injury in a one-car accident about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday on a gravel road northwest of the city near Ebenezer church cemetery.

Sheriff's deputies said the driver was eastbound on a county road and was attempting a right turn when the auto skidded on some loose gravel and ran into a deep ditch.

The 1971 model foreign auto had to be towed from the scene.

Girl's State City Officials Inducted

Although it rained intermittently all day Wednesday, it didn't "dampen" the spirits of the young women attending the 32nd session of Illinois Girl's State.

They gave an enthusiastic reception to Mayor Dan Lahey as he spoke for the fourth and final time as mayor of Jacksonville before the Girl's State Wednesday evening. During the City Government Night Assembly, Mayor Lahey entrusted the responsibility and future of government to the "younger generation who has the energy and time needed." He announced he would not seek office next year.

When Mayor Lahey mentioned the "need for women to interest themselves in government," the 528 delegates burst into spontaneous applause.

The major portion of Mayor Lahey's speech was a reiteration of his talk Tuesday morning at a local church concerning the defects of the present form of city government here.

Mrs. Peg King, the mayor of the Village of Tallula, immediately established a feeling of comradeship and optimism as she addressed the "dignitaries on deck."

"Bubbling" with pride, Mayor King announced the election Wednesday of the Tallula delegate, Deborah Boehm, to the office of mayor in their city. The youthful citizens interrupted with a round of applause.

Mayor King, who is serving her 12th year as mayor, explained the trustee form of government in Tallula and described the village board as "non-political," saying "we (board members) are all in the same boat at Tallula."

She encouraged the young women to take advantage of the IGS opportunity, which "will last forever."

Mayor Lahey extended an invitation to the delegates to tour the local municipal building and was disappointedly informed by the girls of their confinement to the MacMurray campus.

Mayors King and Lahey administered the oaths of office during the induction of the elected city officials.

Other area delegates elected to city government positions were Karen Huson of Palmyra and Debbie Meier of Bluffs. Joan Kirkbach of Carrollton and Mollie McGovern of Beardstown are serving as judges of election.

State Central Committee women were also announced and inducted at that time. Nominees for the legislative branch of the General Assembly were introduced with the election to be held this morning.

Thursday's schedule includes the opening session of the House of Representatives at 7 o'clock this evening.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate Wednesday defeated three proposals for personal-property-tax relief, then launched a bipartisan committee to search for a compromise.

Sen. Cecil A. Partee, D-Chicago, majority leader, named the committee—which, he said, would begin meeting Thursday to aim at a report by Monday.

Before Partee's announcement, the Senate failed to pass a bill to allow a $7,500 deduction from assessed valuation of personal property of individuals and corporations.

Democrats abstained from voting for the House bill, sponsored by Sen. Hudson Sours, R-Peoria, and Sours withdrew it from consideration. Republicans had only 26 members present, and 30 votes were needed for passage.

Republicans abstained, or voted against, two personal-property-tax-relief bills proposed earlier by Democrats.

The first measure, sponsored by Sen. Robert McCarthy, D-Decatur, would have allowed individuals a dollar credit on their state income tax for every dollar paid in personal-property tax. The vote was 28-16, with Republicans voting in the negative.

Next, the Senate defeated a bill by Sen. John L. Knuppel, D-Petersburg, to abolish the personal-property tax.

Partee named himself; Sours; Everett Laughlin, R-Freepoint; Terrell E. Clarke, R-Western Springs, minority leader; Daniel Dougherty, D-Chicago; and James Donnewald, D-Breese, assistant majority leader, to the committee.

The state income tax assessed senators in debate on the three bills.

McCarthy said enactment of the income tax in 1869 and approval of a constitutional amendment to abolish the per-

$1.69 Million Budget Passed For Highways

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate passed unanimously Wednesday a $1.69 billion appropriation for the State Department of Transportation for fiscal 1973.

The budget exceeds that of 1972 by about $190 million. Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's total budget for 1973 is $7.4 billion.

The transportation budget exceeds even the $1.506 billion budget of the Public Aid Department, which also moved to the House.

Sen. Terry Bruce, D-Olney, who heads the Senate budget screening unit, said House scrutiny of at least two items in the transportation budget is likely.

Bruce criticized the appropriation of a quarter-million dollars from motor fuel tax funds for planning functions of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

"This is the first time road fund money has been used for such planning," he said. "Without any restrictions, it is an outright raid on motor fuel tax money." Motor fuel tax revenues are earmarked for highway uses.

He also said House budget screeners will be encouraged to examine outlays for building maintenance storage facilities.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate Wednesday defeated three proposals for personal-property-tax relief, then launched a bipartisan committee to search for a compromise.

Sen. Cecil A. Partee, D-Chicago, majority leader, named the committee—which, he said, would begin meeting Thursday to aim at a report by Monday.

Before Partee's announcement, the Senate failed to pass a bill to allow a $7,500 deduction from assessed valuation of personal property of individuals and corporations.

Partee named himself; Sours; Everett Laughlin, R-Freepoint; Terrell E. Clarke, R-Western Springs, minority leader; Daniel Dougherty, D-Chicago; and James Donnewald, D-Breese, assistant majority leader, to the committee.

The state income tax assessed senators in debate on the three bills.

McCarthy said enactment of the income tax in 1869 and approval of a constitutional amendment to abolish the personal property tax in a 1970 referendum were parts of an implied contract.

"The governor signed his part of the contract when he signed the income-tax bill," McCarthy said. "The people signed the other part when, by 7 to 1, they removed the personal property tax."

The referendum was overturned by the State Supreme Court, but an appeal has been filed with the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The court has intervened," McCarthy said. "Now it comes to us as a question whether we want to carry out our part of the contract like the people are entitled to have."

McCarthy said that, under his bill, a taxpayer with a 1972 state income tax liability of $300, who paid a personal property tax of $150 in 1972 would have a net income tax due of $150.

Many opponents of Knuppel's bill, including Partee, said they could not support a bill to abolish the personal property tax without voting for a bill to provide replacement revenue.

But Partee said he could not vote for another pending Knuppel bill, a companion to the abolition measure, to provide for an increase in the state income tax.

Some Republicans called it hypocritical to offer the two bills separately.

Knuppel replied it was hypocrisy to keep the personal property tax on the books on the grounds the revenue was needed "and then vote in favor of astronomical budgets."

The 1970 state Constitution requires abolition of the personal property tax by 1979. The Constitution required replacement of the lost revenue by tax on persons from whom the personal property tax is removed and allows state income tax increases proportionately on individuals and corporations.

By Housing Authority

The Morgan County Housing Authority board voted Wednesday to increase the maximum rents $12 per unit per month in each category, making the highest rent for a 5 bedroom unit $107.

William Cole, the Housing Authority administrator, said the increased rates were needed to meet operational costs.

Cole read to the board parts of a report prepared by Pfeiffer and Schultz, an engineering consultant to the City of Jacksonville, which completed a study of City Power Co. electric rates.

The report, said Cole, recommended a 40 per cent increase in the Housing Authority's electric rates. Cole said he would vigorously oppose any action to implement such a rate increase. A 40 per cent increase, said Cole, would raise monthly rents an average of about $7 per unit though the 25 per cent of MHA tenants at the top of the income scale would be paying much more.

Rents to MHA tenants cannot exceed 25 per cent of the household's annual net income. The 40 per cent increase would boost the Housing Authority's rate from 1 cent per kilowatt hour to 1.40 cents per kilowatt hour. This compares to a proposed general commercial rate of 5.25 cents per KWH for the first 20 units in the month declining on a sliding scale to a low of 2.30 cents per KWH charged for anything over 15,500 units in a month.

The board passed a motion authorizing its attorney, William L. Fay, to take action to oppose any moves by the city to implement the rate increase.

The board voted to write off $1,184.48 in uncollectable accounts. "One hundred per cent of these are welfare clients which shows you how much cooperation we're getting from the local office," Cole told the board.

The board also approved a request from Henry Aldrich, president of the Jacksonville Preschool Center, asking that his group's rent be reduced from $150 per month to $1 per month for the next year.

The Preschool Center operates a daycare center at the Walnut Terrace housing development. The board agreed that the services provided were important and voted for the rent reduction in hopes the center would weather its financial crisis.

In addition to the token rent, the center will pay the utilities bills and repair any damages to the building.

The board approved a request from Cole to replace an air conditioning unit compressor at the Hoagland Blvd. apartment building at a cost of $1,486.

Tom Jones reported to the board on his activities as a resident service adviser, a part time post he has held since June 1.

Jones is working as a liaison between public agencies and MHA tenants, as well as developing improvement programs and recreational facilities at Walnut Terrace.

Disclosure Act Emancipated By Amendments

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The House adopted a series of amendments Wednesday that weakened drastically the campaign contributions disclosure bill, forcing its sponsor to withdraw it from consideration.

Before being amended, the bill would have required the disclosure of political campaign contributions and spending by candidates for state office and would have limited the amount of money spent on the media.

Approved by an 87 to 79 vote was an amendment to exclude contributions from not-for-profit corporations, labor unions and businesses. This, supporters declared, virtually emasculated the legislation.

Moments later further alterations were adopted requiring that the minimum amount of money required to be recorded by treasurers of political campaigns be increased from $10 to $250. It passed 82 to 79.

"This effectively destroys all disclosure in the bill," exclaimed Rep. Philip W. Collins, R-Chicago, the sponsor. "You can string out as many $249 contributions as you want and never disclose anything."

Prior to amendments, the measure would have required candidates for state office or political committees handling their campaign contributions to:

—File with the board of elections lists of all contributions and expenditures of more than $100. The names, addresses and occupations of all contributors giving $100 or more over in one calendar year would also have had to be reported.

—Report the total amount of funds received from the sale of tickets to political gatherings and the sale of campaign material.

—Limit the candidates' personal campaign contributions to $35,000 if running for any of the affected offices except state representative, or state senator, for which the limit would be $10,000.

—Limit campaign spending on radio, television, newspapers and billboards to 10 cents per registered voter in a voting area.

The legislation would have been applicable to candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, Illinois attorney general, comptroller, treasurer, state representative and state senator.

Asks Morgan For $1.015 To Aid Flood Victims

The Morgan County Red Cross Chapter has been asked to raise a minimum amount of $1,015 to assist the people of the Black Hills and the Rapid City, South Dakota area due the flooding affecting them over the weekend.

There are 3000 people who are homeless. More than 6000 families are affected with either total or partial loss of real and personal property, to compound the problem, flood insurance is almost non-existent. Many families have lost everything, especially loved ones.

Seventy-five Red Cross professional disaster staff are assigned to Rapid City.

The American National Red Cross has launched a National Campaign of five million dollars. This campaign is necessary due the fact that Red Cross Disaster Funds have been wiped out by recent floods in South Texas, Kentucky, Buffalo Creek, West Virginia, and now the very tragic situation in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Anyone desiring to contribute funds are asked to mail to the Red Cross at 1400 W. Walnut, or drop by Hankins Furniture at 1800 South Main, who have volunteered to assist with donations.
